Projects in Area, on River

$1.5 Million More Is Favored on Flood Jobs

A $1,598,705,500 outlay including funds for the Rosendale and Ellenville flood control projects and the widening and deepening of the Hudson River from Albany to New York City was recommended by the House Appropriations Committee, Associated Press reported today.

This is in addition to more than $3 million allocated toward these projects last year. The money, which would be for use in the year starting July 1, is in a public works appropriation bill sent to the House.

List of Projects

Ulster County projects include:

1. Another $150,000 for the Rosendale Flood Control project. A second appropriation of $100,000 was allocated for the program last year.

2. Another $80,000 for the north Ellenville project. An appropriation of $50,000 was allocated last year.

3. Another $2 million for the 32 foot widening and deepening of the Hudson River from Albany to New York City. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers are currently working on the project in the Catskill-Hudson area of the river. A total of $3,200,000 was allocated last year.

To Start at Falls

Work on the Rosendale flood control project will start with rock excavation at the lower end of Rosendale at LeFever Falls and will proceed upstream to provide early benefit from elimination of channel construction.

The North Ellenville project calls for construction of local protection works on the Bear Kill, Fantine Kill and North Gully.

British Colonel Calls Medals for Beatles Mockery

LONDON (AP) — A colonel set a record for anti-Beatleism today by sending 12 medals back to Queen Elizabeth II.

Col. Frederick Wagg, 74, veteran of two world wars, joined the protest movement against the award of the M.B.E. — Member of the Order of the British Empire — to the lank-haired pop quartet.

He also resigned from Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party and canceled a $33,600 bequest to it.

Mockery of Standards
"Decorating the Beatles," said the colonel, "has made a mockery of everything this country stands for."

"I've heard them sing and play and I think they're terrible."

At least six holders of the M.B.E. already had mailed their insignia — a heavy silver cross — back to Buckingham Palace.

Heaviest Protest

Wagg's gesture dwarfed them all. Along with protests to the queen, the queen mother and Prime Minister Wilson he sent:

The Mons Star, the General Service Medal and the Victory Medal from World War I; The North West Frontier Medal from Indian Army service between the wars; The 1939-40 Star, Battle of the Atlantic Star, North Africa Star, Defense Medal and Victory Medal from World War II; And the Belgian Order of Leopold, and the French Croix de Guerre and Croix de Resistance.

Had Royal Approval

He said he sent back the foreign decorations because they were awarded with royal approval. Britons may not accept foreign medals without royal permission.

The only medal he is keeping, he said, is the Croix de Lorraine which Gen. Charles de Gaulle handed to him personally after World War II.

Hundreds of letters about the Beatles award cascaded into the prime minister's office at No. 10 Downing Street and Buckingham Palace. Officials said roughly two in three opposed it, but some of the opposition came from supporters of rival pop groups.

9W Crash Injures 3 From Dutchess Motorist Is Cited

Three persons were injured and a motorist was cited for a vehicle and traffic law violation Wednesday afternoon, after the car in which they were riding went out of control, snapped off a utility pole and overturned several times on Route 9W about 2½ miles south of Kingston.

Trooper Robert C. Anderson, Highland substation, said the northbound car was driven by Grady Cannon, 35, of 149 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, who suffered a fractured right femur and other injuries.

Others injured were Robert Galmore, 40, of the Main Street address, who sustained multiple abrasions and head and arm injuries, and Thelma Calloway, 24, of 142 Main Street, also Poughkeepsie. She suffered lacerations (Continued on Page 20, Col. 6)

Guidance For GOP His Aim

Goldwater Is Not For Third Party

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disavowing any third-party plans, Barry Goldwater announced today the formation of a new organization to guide "a crusade of political education" in the tenets of conservatism.

The 1964 Republican presidential nominee announced he will be honorary chairman of the Free Society Association being formed by some of his closest political associates.

At the same time, Goldwater said he remains a foe of any third-party move.

Against 3rd Party

"I said I would not participate in any such efforts and would resist with all my strength their formation," the former Arizona senator declared. "I repeat that position today with all the emphasis at my command."

Goldwater said the new group will provide a focal point for Americans who are determined to maintain and promote America's basic principles.

He said the research, writing and study which it will conduct "is beyond the scope, responsibility or purpose" of the Republican National Committee.

On the other hand, Goldwater said, the association will conduct no political organization tasks and back no candidates.

Remaining Republican

"I am a Republican and I intend to remain one," he said, "and in that capacity to assist the party wherever that assistance is sought in consonance with my ability to do so."

Goldwater said the association will issue reports—including a series called "The New Federalist Papers," on the principles of the Constitution and the problems now facing the nation.

Later, he said, it will use every means of mass communication including books and periodicals, radio and television to promote "the cause of freedom."

A Goldwater associate said the society aims for 400,000 to 500,000 members and a $2-million to $2.5-million annual budget at the outset.

He said membership will cost $5 for individuals, $10 for families.

Republican officials have indicated that they fear the new organization will divert from the party funds which conservative Republicans might otherwise send to the GOP itself.

Orange Has 31st Death

Orange County recorded its 31st highway fatality of 1965 early today, when John Hart Jr., 20, of Port Jervis, was killed as his car went out of control and crashed into a tree on a highway near Greenville. Four other youths were injured and taken to Horton Memorial Hospital, Middletown. State police said the car failed to negotiate a curve.

Legislature Is On Record for State Lottery

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Legislature was officially on record in favor of a state lottery today as the 1965 session pointed for adjournment next Tuesday.

The controversial lottery plan, passed by the Senate on Monday, won Assembly approval Wednesday by a surprisingly wide margin, 116-18, despite the declared opposition of Gov. Rockefeller.

Because the state constitution would have to be amended to authorize a lottery, the legislation must gain passage by the 1966 Legislature also before it can be submitted to the voters for a final say.

By conducting four or five lottery races a year, advocates estimate the state could net $400 million, all of which would be reserved for additional aid to the public schools.

Both houses of the Legislature voted Wednesday to close out the session — the longest in 54 years — on Tuesday.

In a flurry of action before recessing until next Monday:

The Senate endorsed New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner's plan to borrow $300 million to meet city budget deficiencies pending hoped-for statewide voter approval of a 20 per cent increase in the city's real estate tax. The Assembly is expected to add its approval Monday.

The Assembly gave final legislative approval to a bill that would permit licensed pharmacies throughout the state to sell contraceptives for the express (Continued on Page 26, Col. 5)

American Dead In Domingo Up to 23 Now

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The toll of American dead in the Dominican Republic has risen to 23 with the announcement that three U.S. paratroopers were killed in shooting this week.

The rebel leader, Col. Francisco Caamaño Dueno, claimed Wednesday that 67 Dominicans were killed and 265 wounded in the heavy firing between U.S. forces and rebel supporters on Tuesday.

The Inter-American Peace Force announced that a U.S. paratrooper was killed Wednesday morning and two other U.S. (Continued on Page 26, Col. 5)

Two Firemen Are Going Back to Electrical Work

Resignation of two firemen was accepted "with regret" by the Board of Fire Commissioners at a special meeting Wednesday night.

They are Richard P. Diers, 25, of DeWitt Street and Gerald Diers, 33, of 53 Montrose Avenue, who are to return to employment in the electrical field. Their resignations are effective June 19.

Gerald was appointed to the department on a provisional basis on Aug. 3, 1964 and was named a third grade fireman a short time later.

Richard was named to the department Sept. 7, 1963, and the appointment became effective Sept. 14 of that year.

Both said they were leaving the department to accept employment with "greater financial rewards plus shorter hours." The board extended wishes for their future.

Longendyke Returns

The department became a man short of its present manpower schedule with the retirement earlier this year of Walter F. Madajewski, of 39 Second Avenue, who had served 29 years in the department.

This vacancy was filled, however, with the recent return to the department of James M. Longendyke, of 136 Lucas Avenue, who had served some two years in the U. S. Army.

Police Lose One

The police department also lost a man recently when J. Daniel Devine Jr., of 164 Washington Avenue, left to join the state police, and there is a reported possibility of another leaving the police force soon. It is now four men short after having lacked as many as 10 men within the past two years. Six men were appointed to the department earlier this year, and Devine was one of them. He is now attending a state police training school at Oneonta.

Many Homeless, Losses High

Record Flood Pounds Denver, South Areas

DENVER (AP) — The worst flood in more than 30 years pounded Denver and communities to the south Wednesday night and today, leaving hundreds homeless, ripping out bridges, and causing millions of dollars in damages.

Most of Denver was without power during the night and early morning as a result of flooding of the huge Public Service Co. power plant.

No Loss of Life

No loss in life has been reported.

Floodwater roaring out of mountain cloudbursts raced down the South Platte River late Wednesday. The floods struck after tornadoes ripped through Palmer Lake south of Denver and also pounded down in an area southeast of here.

At the Valley Country Club, three golfers on the course were injured as terrific winds smashed flimsy shelter houses in which they had sought refuge.

Hundreds of persons living close to the South Platte River had to leave their homes. They were given shelter in schools and other buildings.

Water flowed into motels, restaurants and other business houses at the south edge of Denver.

Tracks Washed Out

Water from the South Platte overflowed into the railroad yards at the lower end of 17th Street. Union Pacific tracks at the north end of the yard were washed out. Passengers were transferred to buses and driven to a hotel.

The crest of the South Platte flood struck shortly before midnight. Another crest, three hours later, flattened out before reaching the metropolitan area.

The second crest was reported by the Colorado Highway Patrol to be about 15 feet high — roughly the size of the initial surge — when it reached Water-ton, 16 miles above Denver.

Moves Onto Prairie

Even as the second threat melted away, the first crest was moving out onto the prairie lands northeast of Denver.

Evacuation warnings were sounded ahead of the rising waters and most residents of low-lying areas got out well ahead of the wave.

A power failure blacked out much of downtown Denver shortly before midnight. Other sections of the city also were affected.

Many residents of the Globeville area in North Denver were directed to evacuate their homes shortly before midnight. The city's packing houses and stockyards are located in the vicinity, although apparently high above the water line.

Denver Fire Chief Cassio Frazzini was swept from a rowboat early today in the middle of the torrent while trying to reach some of the trapped persons. He was rescued later as he clung to a tree along the edge of the raging torrent.

2 Downed, Dogfight Near Hanoi

Missiles Used, Foe Never Got Off Shot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Navy Phantom jets shot down two Communist MIG-17 fighters in flames today in a dogfight 50 miles south of Hanoi, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The clash occurred while the Phantoms were flying escort for other U.S. warplanes bombing targets about 20 miles north of Thanh Hoa.

Never Had Chance to Fire

The spokesman said four Communist jets appeared and turned toward the American planes as if they were going to attack. But apparently they were hit before they had a chance to open fire, he said. One parachute was seen opening, but it was not known what happened to the Communist pilot. The other two MIGs escaped.

One plane was shot down by Cmdr. Louis C. Page of San Diego, Calif., who told newsmen in Saigon, "This was the first enemy aircraft I have shot down. Other than that, we were just doing a job."

The pilot of the second Phantom, Lt. (j.g.) E. D. Batson Jr. of Buffalo, N.Y., said: "I'm tickled to death."

The spokesman said the dogfight lasted only 29 seconds and that the Phantoms hit the enemy with air-to-air missiles.

It was presumed that the MIGs were North Vietnamese, although Navy planes have had one brush with Communist Chinese MIGs off Hainan Island, in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Phantoms were flying at an altitude between 10,000 and 20,000 feet when they spotted the hostile aircraft.

Page was asked how they knew the MIGs were about to attack.

Phantom One of Fastest

"If he's in your general area and headed toward you, you have to assume he's up to no good," the pilot replied.

The MIG-17 is of Korean War vintage, armed with one 37mm cannon and two 23mm cannons. The Phantom, one of the fastest and most heavily armed fighters in the American arsenal, is equipped with heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles which home in on the exhaust trail of enemy jets.

The two pilots flew with their radio intercept officers to Saigon for a news conference. Page's officer was Lt. John C. Smith Jr. of Bellevue, Ill., whose wife and children live in Powan, Calif. Batson's officer was Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Dornmus of Montclair, N.J., whose wife and children live in Wilmington, Del.

Mum on Tactics

Page, who served as spokesman for the group, declined to discuss the tactics used in shooting down the MIGs.

Page also declined to say whether the missiles used were Sidewinders or Sparrows. The Phantom carries both.

He said he assumed the MIGs were North Vietnamese. The four enemy planes were silver and bore the yellow and red insignia of North Viet Nam, he said.

U.S. airmen attacking North Viet Nam last reported spotting hostile planes June 1 while bombing an ammunition dump 45 miles southwest of Hanoi. (Continued on Page 20, Col. 5)

New Health Commissioner Named for Ulster County

The full-time appointment of Dr. Vernon B. Link of Belvedere-Tiburon, Calif., as health commissioner for Ulster County, was announced today. He succeeds Dr. Theodore S. Drachman, resigned.

Dr. Link, who was appointed by the Ulster County Board of Health at its June 14 meeting, will assume his duties August 1. Meanwhile Dr. B. J. Duto will continue as acting health commissioner.

Dr. Link is a retired United States Public Health Service officer who served more than 22 years with that service. He was deputy chief of the Communicable Disease Center of the Public Health Service at Atlanta, Ga. His last assignment was on loan to the foreign aid program as chief of the Health Division of the American Embassy in Bogota, Colombia. After retirement from this service, he worked for a year and a half for the California State Department of Health as chief of the General Epidemiology Section of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases.

For the past two years he had been employed by the Seaman's Maritime Union in San Francisco.

Dr. Link, who is married,

DR. VERNON B. LINK

was born in New Mexico in 1910, but from childhood has resided in California. He received his medical degree from the University of Southern California, a Master of Public Health degree from the University of Michigan, and is certified by the American Board of Public Health and Preventive Medicine.

NEW YORK (AP) — Those television Cartwrights are a confusing family — no, no, not the Cartwright brothers, the Cartwright sisters.

As "Bonanza" fans know, the three (soon to be two) Cartwright brothers, Little Joe and Hoss, live with their father, Ben, on a big television spread called the Ponderosa.

But the Cartwright sisters, Veronica, 16, and her 14-year-old sister, Angela, live with their real-life parents in Hollywood and are two of the busiest, steadily employed young performers in the business.

Veronica has already suffered through — and emerged from — a difficult period of type-casting as a nasty kid but a nice young girl in NBC's "Boone Show," as it is called by the trade. No, no, not NBC's "Richard Boone Show" which died last season, but the new one, "Daniel Boone," which has survived nicely and will go into a second season.

In September, Angela will appear with brand new TV parents, June Lockhart and Guy Williams, in a new CBS adventure series, "Lost in Space," victims of a spaceship wreck on an unknown planet.

The youngsters got into acting by first becoming models. Angela, during her TV absence this year since Thomas dropped the comedy series, has been busy

NATURE WEEK AT MOHONK

The Lake Mohonk Mountain House has set aside the period beginning June 19 as Nature Week in their 7,500-acre laboratory. Here will be held an intensive study of nature under expert leadership in ornithology, ecology and conservationism. This will mark the fifth consecutive year of continuously growing interest in this event, which is dedicated to increasing one's awareness of the intricacies of the ecosystem of which we all are a vital part.

One of the best ways of retaining some perspective on man's place in the scheme of things is to take an occasional look at the living world of nature. There is on this earth a vast proliferation of plant and animal life that pays no tribute to man as master of all he surveys—that persists despite man, indifferent to man, and that would doubtless survive even if man insisted on destroying himself.

Life in remote places comes most readily in mind in this connection. However, the point can be illustrated close to home in our inaccessible corners.

Participating in Lake Mohonk Nature Week will afford us an opportunity to see other life, to understand it and make the most of it for the good of all mankind.

MOTORBIKES IN TRAFFIC

It is a small but nettling irony that a swarm of motorcycles and motor scooters has descended upon us at a time when auto production is at a record high and America's traffic clutter is more harrowing than ever. No one can blame the young for relishing the agile transportation afforded by the two-wheelers; no one can deny them the right to zip about on any vehicle that is legal. This does not alter the fact that the motorbikes and variants thereof complicate the business of moving from one point to another in town or out on the highway.

Motorbikes affect the driving psychology of their operators as those tiny foreign cars do, only more so. Once in the saddle, the driver tends to weave and zip in and out of traffic because his mount is capable of that. This puts other drivers distinctly on their mettle.

The operator of a conventional auto, conditioned to respond automatically to any untoward movement of a car-sized or truck-sized object, now finds that his reflexes must be sharpened also to react to much smaller objects. He has to be alert, these days, for the sudden appearance of two-wheelers moving at speed.

It would not be fair to bar motorbikes from the road. Thus there are only two basic ways of dealing with the problem. One is to make sure that those licensed to operate the two-wheelers are adequately tested before being allowed on the road. The other is to apply traffic laws firmly to such vehicles, and crack down on erratic driving. The alternative is worse traffic chaos than we now have.

WAR ON POVERTY

The road to the Great Society may be paved with good intentions, but potholes are popping up along the right of way.

Some people in Ypsilanti, Mich., have declared war on the administration's war on poverty. The group called REPLY—standing for "Return Every Penny and Leave Ypsilanti"—wants the government to pull out a $188,000 antipoverty project set up in their city.

Many Ypsilantians who are objects of the program didn't even know they were poverty stricken, the group contends, until experts arrived from the University of Michigan to tell them so.

Meanwhile, in another part of the Great Lakes, leaders of private welfare agencies in Cleveland are worried that government intervention in poverty programs may mean the end of private charity in this country.

Says Edward H. deConeing, a trustee of the city's Welfare Federation: "We who began assistance to the poor in this country find ourselves offended by . . . the concept now being pushed by Washington that the people who suffer from poverty

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

DE GAULLE MAY BE WAITING FOR DEEDS

Lyndon Johnson has managed, despite extreme provocation, to keep his lip buttoned on the subject of Charles de Gaulle. But others are flailing out at Le Grand Charles, notably Senator Paul Douglas, liberal Democrat of Illinois, who even goes so far as to suggest that France settle up for debts incurred in World War I. (The snort waiting over from the Elysian Fields was undoubtedly that of Calvin Coolidge, who angered all the Douglas-type liberals of his day by his remark, directed at our World War I debtors, that "they hired the money, didn't they?")

The tendency to knock de Gaulle is understandable, for the old man's policies run distinctly counter to those of the U.S. But harsh language, in this particular instance, is worse than useless; for we have no hold on France today. Moreover, there is a sense in which de Gaulle could be right. It may be that the old man distrusts our policies primarily because we seem, from time to time, to put no great trust in them ourselves.

There is the matter of our economic policies, for example. We object when de Gaulle asks for gold in exchange for paper dollars in the French Treasury, but do nothing to protect the purchasing power of the dollar for the future. Meanwhile, we expect other nations—Britain is one—to discipline their economies. Looking at things from de Gaulle's side of the Atlantic, we must seem like a spoiled child when we talk about the need to protect our gold supply. We want the gold, but the traditional protective device of a high bank rate, which might be used to keep it in the U.S., is something for the peasants of Europe, not for the Lords of Creation in New York and Washington. We expect others to suffer while we hang on to the delights of easy money.

Then there is U.S. foreign policy. Charles de Gaulle seems like a dog in the manger when he proposes neutralization in Vietnam. But it could be that he doesn't trust us to carry through in that part of the world. The rainy season is on in South Vietnam, and the Viet Cong seems quite confident that it is going to win in the mud. It would only be natural for de Gaulle, who saw his own countrymen driven out of Vietnam, to doubt that the United States can succeed where France failed, particularly when we refuse to use anti-Communist Asiatic manpower that might be enlisted on our side. If the U.S. is only fighting in Vietnam to lose, de Gaulle can hardly be called stupid in wanting the war to end sooner rather than later, with himself in the "I told you so" position.

The French attitude on the subject of the Dominican crisis could be based on a theory that, when the shooting and shouting are over, there will be a weak and vulnerable Bosch-type government in Santo Domingo anyway. If this is to be the mouse-like result of massive U.S. intervention, why shouldn't de Gaulle try to curry favor with the rest of Latin America by taking an anti-Yankee stand?

For his bid for cultivating the friendship of Russia and the east European satellite governments, de Gaulle has been vilified as a practical traitor to the West. But he is only doing now what we ourselves were doing just yesterday. After all, it was American wheat, sold without any political quid pro quo, that baited the Soviet government out not so long ago. And it was only last January that Lyndon Johnson was angling to entertain Russia's Brezhnev and Kossygin in Washington, in hopes of restoring the Spirit of Camp David.

This columnist doesn't like what de Gaulle is doing. But it is always salutary to try to get inside the other person's skin before sounding off. Anger is only good when it has some chance of working. And de Gaulle is too canny to be impressed by anything besides deeds.

Come to think of it, de Gaulle and LBJ are somewhat alike. Both have flouted their supporters, and Lyndon in the case of the generals on Algeria, and de Gaulle in the case of the liberal nationalists in Vietnam. Could be that LBJ will yet convert de Gaulle by deed.

Bursitis Relieved Best By Direct Injection

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My husband has bursitis of his shoulder. It is so painful he can hardly work. He has been taking cortisone tablets with no relief. He says an ice pack gives the most comfort. Wouldn't heat be better?

A—Bursitis is an inflammation of the lubricating sac attached to large tendons near the joints. The shoulder is one of the commonest locations. Hydrocortisone gives the best results when it is injected directly into the affected bursa but, if the condition is chronic and adhesions have formed, this will do no good. Procaine, a local anesthetic, injected into the bursa will make it possible to move the joint through its full range and break up any adhesions that may have formed. This can be followed by an injection of hydrocortisone.

The arm should be moved through its full range several times a day thereafter, even though this causes some pain, to prevent a recurrence of the stiffness.

Heat is usually preferred to cold for this condition. Short wave diathermy has also been used with success.

Q—My doctor says I have radiculitis (sic). Is there really an ailment by this name? What is it and is there a cure for it? Pain pills don't help.

A—There really is a condition called radiculitis or radicular syndrome but a lot of people wish there weren't. It is a compression-irritation of one or more nerve roots as they came out of the vertebral column.

It may be caused by shingles or other virus diseases, by a herniated or slipped disk, a severe curvature of the spine or a tumor of the spinal cord. The treatment would depend on the cause. If the pain is severe and cannot be controlled with pain killers the nerve root may have to be cut.

Q—My son writes that he has syncope on venipuncture. What is this? Does it require medical attention?

A—Your son faints when a doctor or medical technician puts a needle in his vein. This is a fear reaction. It can be controlled by having him lie down and using smelling salts during the puncture. The medical attention is the cause of the fainting—not the other way around.

Q—Can a heavy beer drinker become an alcoholic?

A—Yes. Although the alcohol in beer is well-diluted, one bottle of beer contains about as much alcohol as a two-ounce shot of whisky.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

know more about its alleviation than professionals who are devoting their lives to these problems."

It would be unfortunate, indeed, if strategic planning from a bureau in Washington were allowed to override as a matter of course the people who have been in the frontlines of the war on poverty for a great many years.

CINCINNATI (NEA) — In politics, actor Ronald Reagan is the man The Speech built.

Already it has helped make him a virtually certain Republican candidate for the California governorship next year and has given him the 1965 crown as champion GOP dinner speaker.

When he offered his spring model of The Speech to some 1,500 conservative Cincinnati and Hamilton County Republicans as part of a statewide salute to new national chairman Ray Bliss, Reagan was re-enacting a part he now has played dozens of times.

His 1,500 listeners here gladly paid $100 each for a plate of rough-textured steak with a small mound of peas, even though they had heard the show before.

That, indeed, was the whole point. They wanted to hear again a performance many said flatly was the one really bright moment of an otherwise bleak 1964 presidential campaign. For them, Reagan's smoothly orchestrated commentary is just about the sweetest Republican music they have ever heard.

Among his listeners in Cincinnati were many who had heard all three Cincinnati-area telecasts of his celebrated October version of The Speech. These reactions were common:

"I like it more each time . . . If he had done that all through the campaign, Barry Goldwater would have been a shoo-in . . . He offered Goldwater's views in a way that makes people believe in them . . . He said what Goldwater should have said, but didn't . . . He told the truth."

THERE CAN BE NO QUESTION, off his latest outing here, that what Reagan offers his partisan audiences is a kind of minor masterpiece in the political leagues. Few politicians in recent decades have troubled to tool their staple platform products so finely.

At base, the Regan speech is a 40-minute machine gun assault against the federal bureaucracy and the Democrats he holds accountable for its swollen size.

With speed reminiscent of the late John Kennedy's outpourings in his 1960 television debates with Richard Nixon, the 54-year-old Regan pumps out his bullets against the federal target.

Listeners hear topics flash by almost as fast as details: Taxes, Social Security, farm allotments, the gold balance, poverty fighters' salaries, Viet Nam.

He tells warmly receptive Republicans the Social Security system is $300 billion in the hole, that government activities competing with business have rung up $81 billion in losses, that a corporation each year must fill out 2,700 different federal forms, that businessmen spend 35 per cent of their time in such paper work.

A conscientious reporter would need a month to check out Reagan's statistical barrage for accuracy. Nothing short of a White Paper could provide suitable, documentary judgments.

BUT FEW OF HIS LISTENERS are nagged by doubts. They watch with approving zest as every well-aimed bullet is fired.

They love the gunfire and the air of authority with which he attacks. They revel in the relish with which he leaps, with a sort of small-town-boy innocence, to the barricades. He knows how to puncture, legitimately, the pompous and absurdities of a huge bureaucracy.

"A taxpayer? Reagan asks. 'That someone who works for the government who doesn't have to take a civil service exam.'"

The status quo? "That's Latin," he says, "for the mess we're in." The President? "He has to leave the White House lights on now. How else can he read those Republican campaign speeches and know what to do next in Viet Nam?"

Through it all, Regan smiles disarmingly, sprinkles literary and historic allusions a la Kennedy, blends sober charge and witty sally in a mixture Republicans hungry for sustenance cannot resist.

The Speech has carried Reagan far. But one has to wonder how much farther it can take him in the rugged tests ahead.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The holiday weekend brought nice cool weather and everybody moved from place to place. Woodstock had many visitors but the colorful, as we called them, Woodstock long dresses, are no longer worn. Girls and boys dress so alike it is difficult to tell them apart. Recently the girls started to let their hair grow long, nearly to the waist, but still they dress in boyish fashion. I remember the grace of the women in those gypsy or present fashion and colored dresses, and big straw hats and bags seemed to do something for Woodstock.

Years ago, the landscape was dotted with farms, red barns, cattle and farm houses. Today wherever there is a flat piece of land housing projects are built, these look alike houses with a little land around them. Some have a driveway for a car, some have garages. But what is strange, the garages are filled with lawn-mowers, bicycles and ladders and the car stands outside like an orphan. A large housing project near the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge, which I think has a garage with each house and a small piece of land, each car stood outside, and the bicycles and such were in the garage.

Perhaps someone will think of a shed-space underneath with a cover which can be used for chairs and tables and such. Old-timers knew the need for attics and cellars and sheds, especially when the family grows. Today the lady of the house falls in love with the kitchen, and never sees the two by four's the house is made of, or the fancy, fragile building materials. Those houses are bought with years to pay for them, and so little land around them, seldom a grown tree, or rock-formation, or shade or a place to plant a half a dozen tomato plants in good black earth.

I like Woodstock because of its individuality of people for one, also because of its terrain, its hilly sections, the rocky stream, so that each house owner can suit his own taste in building or landscaping his house, his fence, flowers, color, and blinds. The powers that be haven't reached there yet with its unsympathetic bulldozer that makes all land level and even, like a place for barracks or sandy housing projects. Woodstock is also a village of visitors of many foreign languages and foods, yet the people look alike. I notice that the middle-aged ladies are going in for some sort of tea-colored hair coloring this year. No matter where they are from, the tint or dye is the same, a weak tea color, that no doubt only their hairdresser knows how it is done. Crafts shops, antique shows, and art galleries present a fine picture bow grown ups like to play and color. I hope the powers that be with their bulldozers never find Woodstock.

On Preventing Crime Before Harm Is Done

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There is a tendency nowadays to blame crime on a lack of education or on poverty or on the absence of parental care. But what shall be said of the two youths one white and one Negro—conspicuous in the headlines of a few days ago? Both had plenty of education and, indeed, had distinguished themselves in school. Yet they are accused of grave crimes—in one instance three murders, and in the other case a series of assaults on young girls after threatening them with a knife.

Duane Pope, 22, was graduated a few weeks ago from McInerney College in Kansas where he had been co-captain of the football team. Police declare he has admitted that on June 4 he entered a bank in Nebraska, killed three officials of the bank and ran away with $1,500. He later gave himself up.

Last week, the police announced that a 19-year-old scholarship student at Brandeis University, Alfred L. Gonzague, had been arrested and had confessed to raping or assaulting about 30 young girls in the past year and a half in apartment houses in New York City. This boy, a Negro, had a good education. He was not only a track star in high school but an above-average student. He specialized in political science at the university.

Duane Pope, the white youth, had taken a criminology course at college. Upon hearing of the tragedy, the professor who had taught him said:

"Of all the people in my class I have to say that Duane is the very last I would think could do anything like what he is accused of. If it was Duane it was a Duane I don't think I know any longer. Something must have snapped. I feel. Or did any of us really know the real Duane?"

What causes promising young men to go astray? The problem of society today is to detect mental irregularities and to protect other human beings against criminal behavior that is the direct result of a disordered mind.

Plenty of money is being spent by the Federal government and by the states for education, and lots of it is going into the field of science with the idea of finding ways to improve human life. But the real question is whether enough funds are being devoted to research on the biggest puzzle of all human behavior—mental irregularities. State institutions are filled with human beings who have become a menace to society, and in innumerable instances community life has been protected against acts that might have ensued if the criminally minded had not been institutionalized.

One of the unfortunate developments today, however, is that many of these same types of persons are released after brief periods in an institution, and they sometimes revert to their original tendencies. As a result, innocent persons are injured or murdered.

When Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President Kennedy, this correspondent and others suggested that the time had come to control firearms so that only persons mentally well-balanced would be licensed to possess such weapons. Just as the state governments have the power to issue licenses to automobile drivers and to punish reckless drivers, by the same token persons who possess mental characteristics that are potentially dangerous could be refused the use of pistols and guns.

But very little research has been done on the basic causes of Oswald's crime. The Warren Report is a voluminous document which gives plenty of findings of the existence of a disordered mind long before the assassination occurred. The schools and colleges are well aware that many of their students have erratic tendencies. But the custom is to brush off such manifestations as the responsibility of parents and not of the college or university or public school, yet for the protection of society, the individual who has erratic tendencies, carried to the point of being taken. There are unquestionably curative procedures which can be tried.

Today, unfortunately, as the newspapers report crime after crime, generalities are heard to the effect that these happenings result from poverty or poor education, but a study of the biggest cause of crimes—mental irregularity—is neglected.

Just 50 years ago, this correspondent went to the theater with the late Lindley M. Garrison, who served much of his life on the bench in New Jersey and became vice-chancellor of the highest court of the state and then Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Wilson. When asked what he thought of the drama we both had witnessed, he remarked:

"There is no accounting for what a human being will do under the influence of sex or insanity."

But today the science of psychology and psychiatry treatment are far advanced. Some answers are beginning to be found, but they are not widely known or effectively applied.

Will Submit CR Bill on Monday To Pa.'s House

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The Scranton Administration indicated today it probably would submit its civil rights program to the House next Monday, with or without Democratic support.

"We have waited long enough for them to look the proposals over," declared A. James Richley, Gov. Scranton's legislative secretary.

Except for one bill, the entire Scranton package on civil rights has been under study by majority Democrats in the House for more than a month.

Among the bills in the package are proposals to:

—Give the State Human Rights Commission the power to prohibit through injunction the sale of a property when it is the subject of litigation involving fair housing and discrimination.

—Prohibit religious educational institutions from discriminating on the basis of race.

—Require that notices of Pennsylvania's anti-discrimination laws be posted in places of employment.

—Make one or more members of the Human Rights Commission a quorum with the power to conduct hearings.

The legislature is in recess until Monday following a hectic day Wednesday which saw House Republicans march off the floor en masse to protest what they called the consistent late arrivals of Ellberg.

Minority Leader Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, led his troops away 32 minutes after the session was scheduled to start, forcing the House to adjourn without action on a single piece of legislation. Ellberg, D-Philadelphia, arrived several minutes after the walkout and called for adjournment.

The Senate also quit for the week after a 45-minute session to advance approximately $166.5 million in appropriations bill in position for a final vote next

Seems Like Time to Survey U.S. Program of Foreign Aid

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some senators and representatives will now knock their heads together over foreign aid. Out of this may come something more imaginative and practical than this country has seen in years.

Except for its part in World War I, and some spurts afterwards, this country stuck to its ancient isolationism until, for sheer survival, early in 1941 it began helping the foes of fascism with lend-lease.

This truly got it involved in World War II and before the year was out the United States was all the way in.

President Harry S. Truman ended lend-lease right after the war but this was a mistake. It deprived Europe and Asia of much-needed help when nations

Plans Bus Exhaust

To Smell Like Flowers

DETROIT (AP)—If you can't get rid of air pollution, at least make it smell nice, reasons Lucas S. Miel, general manager of Detroit's municipal bus system.

His department is planning to experiment with an odor-control chemical which makes motor-bus exhaust fumes smell like flowers, Miel said Wednesday.

He said Santa Monica, Calif., uses the chemical in its municipal buses and that authorities there are pleased with the fragrant change.

The package included $67 million in temporary stop-gap funds for the operation of state government in the new fiscal year until a regular general appropriations bill is approved.

Two Scranton Administration appropriations bills also were received by the Senate—one for $4 million for medical care for the aged, the other $1 million for capital grants to community colleges.

there were flat on their backs. The United States extended various kinds of help but in 1948 set forth on a worldwide program of help. Altogether since the war this country has handed out over $100 billion in foreign economic and military aid.

Not Always Successful

Undoubtedly this blood transfusion, plus American military might, stopped the march of communism to which chaos and poverty are a "come on in" sign. But as the years passed there was growing American discontent about this aid.

It wasn't always successful, as Viet Nam shows.

Starting there more than 15 years ago, when the French were fighting the Vietnamese Communists, this country has put about $5 billion in economic and military aid into the country. And the result isn't pretty.

The guerrillas and Communists there are stronger than ever.

Out of all this foreign aid, unmatched in the history of the world, the United States threw off its isolation and at once became the leader of the non-Communist part of the earth.

But—the United States is a newcomer on the international scene with perhaps no more than 25 years of experience in deep involvement with countries everywhere.

Lot to Learn

In short, it still has a lot to learn when compared with the British and French who were up to their international necks for centuries.

So, because it is just a beginner with no more than a quarter of a century in distributing aid, it would seem time for a good, stiff look on how it has been doing and where it is going in this field.

The Senate thinks so. When it passed the foreign aid authorization bill this week it proposed ending the program in its present form in two years, with a 16-member special commission created to investigate the program and make recommendations on future aid.

This is a combination of self-examination and inventory. But the House, which passed its own version of the foreign aid bill earlier, didn't go for the soul-searching the Senate suggests.

Before that can happen the House will have to agree to the Senate idea. It may not. The two houses have some other differences which they must compromise before the foreign aid bill gets final approval.

Should Have Been Together

One thing which seems necessary, even if the commission proposal is abandoned, is more certainty that U.S. aid will be spread among the people of backward countries to improve their lives and give them a reason for being non-Communist rather than the other way around.

If the United States had taken a lot tougher policy with its aid to Viet Nam—insisting long ago upon broad programs of help to the masses of Vietnamese villagers whose life expectancies are only half that of Americans—the Communists might not have made the progress in Viet Nam they did.

Sooner or later the foreign aid program is going to have to be re-examined. A number of senators feel that way, particularly the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, J. W.

Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat.

For instance, several months ago he said, "Where we have given the most aid, we have inspired the most antagonism." He named France as one example and Egypt as another.

Local Delegate To Attend Synod Meeting at Keuka

When the Presbyterian Synod of New York convenes its three-day annual meeting at Keuka College, Keuka Park, on June 22, Elder James F. McDonald of Lake Katrine, will attend as a delegate from the Presbytery of Hudson River.

The 188 participants, including equal numbers of ministers and elders, will vote on matters affecting their denomination's 329,000 communicants in 917 congregations in New York State and Puerto Rico. Fuller co-ordination of the 40 types of Presbyterian health-and-welfare services within the synod will be studied. So will closer cooperation in migrant work, legislative activity, new church development, a more vital ministry to vacationers and the use of the synod's new Adirondack Center for Renewal and Study. A special report will recommend that Puerto Rico Presbytery, which has had mission status, become self-administering.

Preceding the formal business sessions Father John Sheerin, editor of the Catholic World, will deliver two Auburn Endowment lectures on Vatican II.

The sole nominee to succeed Dr. William Hudnut of Rochester as moderator of synod is the Rev. Merle S. Irwin of First Presbyterian Church, Poughkeepsie.

Ever Make a '2½ Finesse'?

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A letter from Cleveland reads in part: "I had 17 points for my no-trump opening and my partner was certainly entitled to go to three no-trump with his 11. According to you and all other authorities 11 plus 17 equals 28 and all you need for game is 26.

"I made game all right but must consider that I was lucky. East won the first trick with the ace of clubs and returned the jack. I ducked. West overtook with the queen and led a third club which I won. I could only count eight tricks and saw that the only place for a ninth trick was in hearts. I went to dummy, led a heart and stuck in the nine. West won with the king, took his last club and led a spade. I was back in dummy and successfully finessed my jack of hearts for my ninth trick. Was that a triple finesse?"

The answer to his final question is that it was about a two and one-half finesse. It was also correct play since it gave the best chance for a ninth trick. The chance wasn't too good since it depended on finding East with the ten spot and either the king Twenty-six points or even 29 or 30 don't guarantee a game.

Kripplebush

KRIPPLEBUSH — A large number of people attended the program of slides presented by Mrs. Clarence Miller on her recent trip to the Holy Land. The event was held recently at the Kripplebush Methodist Church. The free will offering of $103.45 will be used for mission work. A fellowship hour was held after the program.

Miss Sally Ann Emmerling and Miss Christina Gorham, June graduates, were honored at the program and presented with scrapbooks and pens by the WSCS.

Carl David Miller returned to his home here recently from the State University College at Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Osterhout and Penny spent the weekend with their parents at Lake George.

A number of Sunday school members and their parents attended the picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwarz. The local museum will open for the summer Saturday. Hours will be 1 to 4 p. m.

Vast Plain

The pampas is a South American Indian word meaning "a flat surface" and is a vast plain stretching across central Argentina from the Atlantic coast to the foothills of the Andes. It is bounded by the Chaco in the north and Patagonia in the south, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

All we know is that when the partnership has 26 high card points it belongs in game provided that it can find a satisfactory spot.

Twenty North-South points were concentrated in two suits but could only produce six tricks. Give either North or South a fourth spade or diamond and there would be another top trick and three no-trump would have been a lead pipe cinch.

Kowal Improves, Found on Office Floor Tuesday

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Mayor Chester C. Kowal was reported as improving in the hospital today after, police said, he had been found unconscious in his office with a bottle of white pills beside his face. Worried relatives and fellow workers found the mayor's unconscious form on the floor hours after he had been indicted by an Erie County grand jury on charges of perjury, conspiracy and taking of unlawful fees in connection with an inquiry into refuse contracts.

He was taken to Columbus Hospital where his stomach was pumped, a physician said.

The mayor had returned Tuesday night to city hall after his arraignment to perform some work, Peter Kowal, the mayor's brother said. The mayor then told his brother, "Leave me alone, I want to complete some work."

Police Commissioner William H. Schneider said the pills found near the mayor may have been for the treatment of a kidney infection or brucitis from which Kowal suffers.

Dr. James R. Borzilleri of the hospital staff said tests of the mayor's blood showed "nothing."

The grand jury indicted Kowal and former Corporation Counsel Ralph Salt on charges of conspiracy, taking unlawful fees and violating the state law regarding public officials.

Return to Rutgers For Two-Weeks Banking Classes

Two local bankers returned this week to Rutgers University for the third session at Stonier Graduate School of Banking to continue through June 25. The sessions are held at the university campus at New Brunswick, N. J.

They are Fred P. Carpenter, vice president and treasurer of Kingston Trust Company and Joseph W. Robertson, vice president of the banking institution.

Carpenter and Robertson are two of 1,100 bank officers who are attending the two-week session of the school sponsored by The American Bankers Association. This student body represents 46 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

The Stonier Graduate School was founded in 1935 by the A.B.A. to provide an opportunity for advanced study for experienced bankers. The faculty for the 1965 session numbers approximately 100 outstanding bankers, lawyers, educators, bank supervisors, and government officials. During the session they will cover all phases of banking, economics, law, government, and related subjects.

In addition to their three resident sessions at Rutgers, to qualify for graduation, Carpenter and Robertson must have completed two years of extension study at home and written a thesis based on original research in some phase of finance. They will be awarded a diploma issued jointly by Rutgers, The State University and The American Bankers Association.

Two Will Fight U.S. Extradition

MONTREAL (AP)—Two Canadians arrested Tuesday on charges of first-degree murder in a bank robbery-slaying in Elmhurst Depot, N.Y., say they will fight extradition to the United States.

In an appearance in Extradition Court here Wednesday, Wilje DuPuis, 41, and Rene Pilon, 32, both of Montreal, said they will not voluntarily return. Their hearing was continued until June 23.

DuPuis, Pilon, and two other Montreal men, Guy Beaudet, 32, and Albert Couture, 36, are charged with the slaying of bank teller Roy Dornier, 53, during a holdup of the National Commercial Bank & Trust Co. in Elmhurst Depot March 22. The gunmen escaped with $4,900. Beaudet and Couture, held in Plattsburgh, N.Y., appeared Wednesday before Supreme Court Justice Robert G. Main. An attorney for Couture requested a change in venue for his client.

No action was taken on the request, but Justice Main appointed an attorney to defend Beaudet, who in French, said he had no funds.

Belly Dancing Is
New Hobby for Philly Housewives

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eight women, three of them housewives, are starting a new hobby. They are learning the art of Mideast belly dancing.

All said they were doing it just for fun and that they would be afraid to perform in public.

Teaching the intricate maneuvers of the belly dancing is Susanne Hoffman, 23, a secretary. When she's teaching her specialty, at the school (The Penn Center Dance Club) however, she's known as Princess Neila.

Describing the dance, Miss Hoffman, or Princess Neila, said:

"It's not just jumping around. It's an art.

"People just don't appreciate the beauty of the dance. It's so frustrating to dance for Americans. A lot of them think it's a strip or something. All they do is make wisecracks.

"I dance to Greek music, which isn't so authentic because it's slower and in 5-4 time, rather than Arabian 7-8 time.

"And I move my feet too much. Also I don't do the real stomach rolling. To do that you have to start practicing as soon as you can walk. It's extremely hard."

The class, besides the three housewives, includes a student, two dancers, a ceramics teacher and a photographer.

"I'm doing it for personal satisfaction," said one student, Marie Vartanian, 30, the mother of three children.

Her sister-in-law, Pat Vartanian, also the mother of three, said, "I'm doing it for release."

October 18 is a legal holiday in Alaska in commemoration of the formal taking over of the area by the United States.

League Campaign
To Spur Zoning

The Woodstock League of Women Voters this week is conducting a door-to-door canvass seeking signatures on a petition urging immediate passage of the proposed Zoning Ordinance.

In addition to the canvass, a booth will be set up in front of the Grand Union in Woodstock Friday evening to give townspeople further opportunity to sign the petition.

Copies of the petition are also available at the Bearsville store, the Trading Post in Lake Hill, Esso station and store in Willow and the Wittenberg store.

At the conclusion of a study and discussion of zoning, the league membership arrived at a consensus to "Support the Immediate Passage of the proposed Zoning Ordinance for the Town of Woodstock."

Mrs. Robert A. Donnan, league president, explains: "As a league we back issues only after careful and detailed study. At this time, we feel it would be helpful to the Town Board to know how many people are in favor of the Proposed Zoning Ordinance."

Fireworks Again
Set for July 3
At Dietz Stadium

The Kingston Uniformed Firefighters Association, Local 461, will present its ninth annual fireworks display and entertainment in Dietz Stadium Saturday, July 3, at 7:30 p. m., it was announced today by Floyd L. Finch, president.

The holiday event, which each year attracts approximately 10,000 persons to the stadium, is presented by the Firefighters Association to raise funds for the organization's participation in various civic and welfare projects in the Kingston area.

The fireworks display will be presented at dusk, preceded by the annual entertainment. The stage program will be announced next week, Finch said.

A flag-raising ceremony will begin the holiday program and the Fire Fighters Association will present a new American flag, which will be accepted on behalf of the city by Mayor John J. Schwenk.

The firemen originated the annual show not only to provide holiday entertainment for youngsters and adults, "but also to observe the patriotic significance of July 4 in order that the importance of the holiday in America's great history of freedom will not go unnoticed without special celebration in the community," Finch noted.

Tribute Is Paid To Victims of Revolt in 1953

BERLIN (AP)—West Berliners, still indignant over this week's shooting of two boaters by East German guards, paid tribute today to the victims of the revolt against communism in East Germany 12 years ago.

Because of the nature of this holiday and the latest shooting, in which Hermann Doebler, 42, was killed and his woman companion seriously wounded, police were alerted for possible disturbances along the wall.

June 17 is a national holiday known as Unity Day.

Anger over the machine-gunning Tuesday of Doebler and his fiancée continued to dominate public opinion here. All West Berlin newspapers played up the unusually sharp protest letter of U.S. Ambassador George C. McGhee to Pyotr Abrassimov, the Soviet envoy in East Berlin.

McGhee warned the Russians that the United States would take measures to protect the West Berliners. Officials declined to divulge what these measures might be.

Tuesday's shooting occurred on the Tetlow Canal when the boaters apparently strayed into East German waters by mistake.

Exam Is Listed For Senior Steno

The salary range is $3,560-$4,160. At present a vacancy exists in Family Court and another in the Ulster County Community College.

The written examinations are being prepared and rated by the New York State Department of Civil Service. The provisions of the State Civil Service rules and regulations dealing with the rating of examinations, will apply to these written examinations.

Further information may be obtained at the office of Civil Service Commission in the new County Office Building.

Rhinebeck Votes School Budget

Voters in the Rhinebeck Central District on Wednesday approved a $1,049,614.27 budget for 1965-66, an increase of $27,344.52 over the current operating budget.

Robert W. Asher, incumbent Board of Education member, was unopposed in his bid for another term.

School officials had estimated that taxpayers would receive a decrease per $1,000 of assessed valuation ranging from 12 cents in Rhinebeck to $1.55 in Milan. An increase of $1.68 per thousand dollars is anticipated in the Town of Stanford section of the Rhinebeck Central School District because of the town's decreased equalization rate.

Viet on Agenda

Absenteeism Running High*Legislature Is Struggling Toward Early Adjournment

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature is struggling toward adjournment in the fashion of a tired, battered army wending its way home from a long, hard battle.

Absenteeism has run high during the day-to-day sessions of the closing days.

Outbursts of temper and irritation are more frequent.

Indications are that many members are annoyed with their leadership, whether Democratic or Republican.

The lawmakers complain of how the long session, which began Jan. 6, has worked hardships on their home lives, their jobs and their pocketbooks.

The poor attendance at many sessions has led to outlandish efforts to delay the announcement of official tallies of votes on bills, while legislators are rounded up and brought to their desks.

When a Democratic bill needed one more vote to win passage in the Senate this week, the acting majority leader ordered the sergeant-at-arms to summon Majority Leader Joseph Zaretzki. Zaretzki has been one of the most severe critics of senators who wander out of the chamber, but he was not in sight.

A Senate debate on a relatively minor bill affecting New York City deteriorated into a shouting, angry argument over the New York mayoral race.

An Assembly vote on a key Democratic program to speed the repeal of the Condon - Wallin law requiring dismissal of public employees who strike was suspended when it became apparent to leaders they did not have sufficient members present to pass it. The vote was delayed 24 hours.

As leaders planned for closing next week, the annual adjournment resolution, normally an innocuous piece of business, suddenly became a major bargaining point in top-level discussions.

Republicans demanded a firm commitment for ending the session—in the form of a resolution—as their price for providing votes the Democratic leadership needed to pass New York City fiscal bills.

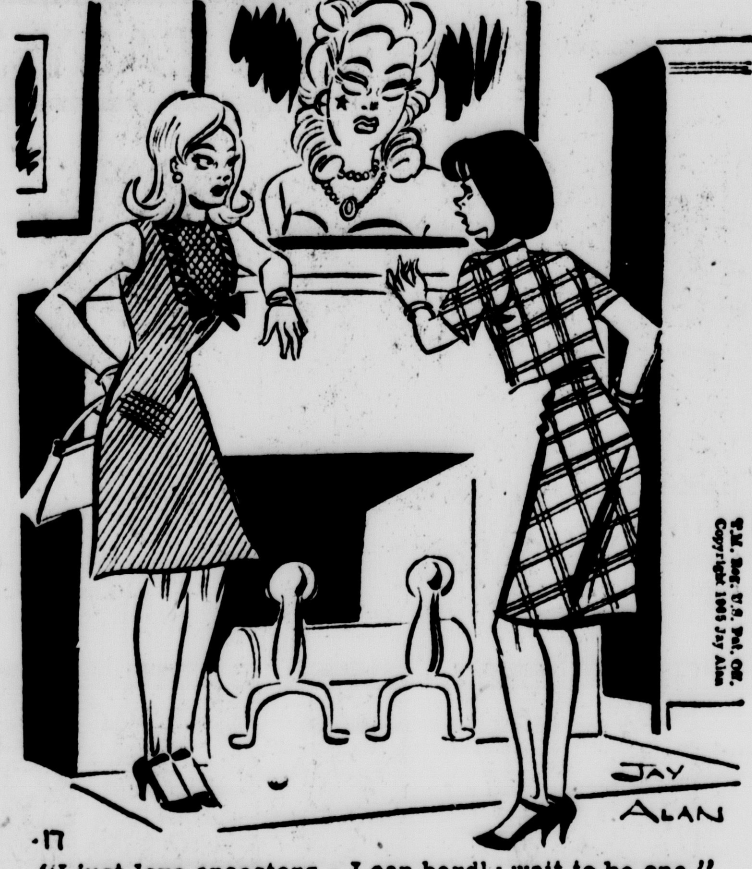

Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, who has presided over the free-wheeling larger house with a restraint unusual for him, showed signs of the general impatience during a long debate one night this week.

As it progressed, he began pacing back and forth on the speaker's stand, lighting one cigarette after another. He strode back and forth, alternating the pace by circling around his high-backed chair.

The debate, on a motion to discharge from committee a bill to prohibit school districts from busing children to achieve racial balance in schools ended with a vote of 58-53 against bringing out the measure. There were 39 members absent.

Travia had continually advocated a policy of patience and stated that the Legislature would remain in session as long as was necessary to complete its work.

But, as the session passed the mid-June point, he joined the ranks of those anxious to wind up the long, grueling session and head for home.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, the Battle of Bunker Hill was fought at Charlestown, Mass.

On this date In 1856, the first Republican National Convention was held in Philadelphia.

In 1928, Amelia Earhart became the first woman passenger to fly the Atlantic.

In 1940, the French government of Marshal Petain asked for an armistice with Germany.

In 1943, Allied bombers pounded Naples and Sicily.

Five years ago — the U.S. representative to the 10-nation disarmament conference in Geneva, Frederick Eaton, was called back to Washington for consultations.

One year ago — Premier Nikita Khrushchev was on a goodwill tour of the Scandinavian countries.

For Highway Purposes*Aid to County Is $48,750; Towns To Share $123,762

Ulster County has been allotted $48,750.60 and the 20 townships will share $123,762.25 in the distribution of annual payment of $7,661,290.48 in state aid for highway purposes announced this week by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt.

The total includes $2,101,565.90 in state aid to the 57 counties outside of New York City and $3,559,724.58 for road building and repairs by the 932 towns in these counties.

The law provides that towns may receive the difference between the amount of a tax of 1 1/2 mills on actual property valuation and the sum of $150 for each mile of highway in the town, but not less than $75 per mile. Where the levy is less than the amount of 1 1/2 mills but equal to the amount of $75 for each mile of highway, aid is paid at the $75 per mile rate, to all other towns the state aid payment is in the amount equal to the amount of the levy.

State financial aid for county highway purposes is allotted on a matching basis—the state matches county appropriations for construction or improvement of county roads up to $30 per mile.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You can't keep a good film maker down. So Harry Joe Brown is preparing yet another Western after recovery from an auto accident that nearly ended his career.

It has been quite a career. For 45 years he has been making movies, mostly with horses and cowpokes. At 72 his zest for work remains undiminished. You can find him at Columbia Studios.

Has Big Plans
Brown's new project is "The Long Ride Home," a post-Civil War Western for which he has big plans.

"It's good to be back at work again," he said. "I was put out of commission for 16 weeks by an auto crash down at Palm Springs."

"This will be my first picture in Hollywood for a few years. I spent three years abroad making pictures with Sean Flynn. We did three of them — in Italy, Spain and India. I have great faith in the boy; he's no great actor but he has an appeal for the women like his father (Errol). And he's the best athlete on the screen since Doug Fairbanks."

Harry Joe knows picture making as few others do.

A Pittsburgh boy who dabbled on the New York stage, Brown came out of World War I an infantry captain and was hired to produce pictures for the old Equity Company. In 1922 he was sent to Hollywood to film Westerns for Monogram.

Mix Films Helped
"I had no idea how to make a Western," he recalled. "So when I got out here, I asked somebody who was the best in the Western field. I was told Tom Mix. For a whole week I looked at Tom Mix movies, then I figured I was ready."

But he needed a star and a horse. He found both: Fred Thompson and his palomino Silver King. They became top favorites with the horse opera fans.

Brown then became a producer for Warner Brothers, Fox and RKO, and his name appeared on such movies as "Captain Blood," "Casting Zero," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "The Rains Came," and "Down Argentine Way."

But the hankering for Westerns persisted. He hooked up with Randolph Scott for a string of independent productions that stretched 17 years. "Randy finally said, 'I've had it,'" said Brown. "He quit to play golf half a day and at oil investments the other half."

Would Harry Joe quit? "Don't think so," said he. "I don't want to be on the outside looking in."

The action arose from an automobile accident at Cornell Street and Ten Broeck Avenue in October 1962. N. LeVan Haver appeared for plaintiff and Alfred Schleider appeared for defendant. The case was tried in Supreme Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino who has been assigned to preside at Part II of the June term of Supreme Court.

Dear Abby . . .

They're Bored!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Six girls in our office go to coffee together twice a day. One girl (I'll call her Trudy) has been having trouble with her husband and for the past year every coffee break has been devoted to listening to Trudy run him down. She says he needs a psychiatrist, is involved with a married woman, etc. She asks us for advice, but never takes it. She continues to live with him and complains daily. At first we were all very sympathetic to Trudy, but our patience has run out and we would like to talk about something else for a change. How can we let her know without hurting her feelings that we are bored with her domestic affairs?

THE OTHER FIVE
DEAR FIVE: Get together and appoint the girl who is closest to Trudy as "Chairman of the Bored." She should tell Trudy privately that the other girls desire a break with their coffee, and she should lay off the subject. Trudy should also be advised to take her problem to her clergyman or a marriage counselor if she seriously wants to resolve them. Some people don't really want to DO anything about their problems. They just enjoy talking about them. Trudy could be one, so don't delay.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my father. He isn't mean to us kids or anything, but as soon as school is out for summer vacation, he takes all us boys down to the barbershop and has our heads shaved. I am 13 years old now and I would like to have some hair over the summer. How old do you think a boy should be for his father to stop doing this?

SHAVED

DEAR SHAVED: As soon as a boy is old enough to complain out of vanity, his father should discontinue the practice.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the man who complained about his wife being too fat. He said this was the reason for many marriage break-ups I want to set him straight. He's lucky he's never had to live with a woman who constantly lives and talks diets. And in order to keep herself thin she starves, and so does her poor husband. Women like her are always crabby and irritable. THEY cause more marriage break-ups than fat women. I know because I almost lost a good husband trying to diet myself into a size 12. I woke up just in time to save my marriage. Ten years ago I weighed 115. Now I'm — "158" and HAPPY

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the writer who signed herself "Disgusted" because her daughter-in-law's baby still had a bottle at 13 months: She must be more concerned about appearances than what the child actually needs. It seems to be "in" to have your child more "grown up" than someone else's. Many children give up the bottle at 9 months or younger. But some need it when they're 18 months and older. Most will give it up of their own accord.

I am the mother of four and each was different. In other countries babies often nurse until they're two years old and suffer no ill effects. Children suck because they need to. Take the bottle away too soon and they'll find something else to suck—thumbs, toys, blankets. Tell "Disgusted" to let the baby be a baby. It'll grow up soon enough.

Moscow Is Drab In Comparison to Leningrad City

By FRED COLEMAN

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — V. I. Lenin slept here. So did Russia's czars for 200 years. Together they made this northernmost metropolis one of the world's great curiosities.

Here Lenin swept the Bolsheviks to power in 1917, the first Communist takeover in history. Ironically, this city that bears Lenin's name still honors the czars—Peter the Great, Catherine the Great and others—with monuments and statues and burial in the baroque richness of the Peter and Paul fortress. In Moscow there are no remaining statues to the czars.

Like Crossing Border

Moscow, the city of the commissars and the Soviet capital since 1918, impresses most foreigners as drab and ugly. Leningrad, the city of the czars, gives many foreign travelers from Moscow the impression they have crossed a border.

Leningrad's beauty and similarity to some Western European capitals hits most foreigners immediately. The Neva River winding past the winter palace of the czars, the golden-spired Admiralty Building and other architectural masterpieces remind some visitors of Paris. The Hermitage, one of the world's great museums and thought by many art lovers to be on a par with the Louvre in Paris, strengthens his impression.

No Skyscrapers

Czar Nicholas I ruled in 1844 that all new buildings in St. Petersburg, as the city then was called, should be seven feet low-

Governor Weighs All Opinions on Birth-Control Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today weighed clerical and judicial opinions, among others, as he considered whether the state should lift a long-standing ban on sale of birth-control devices.

The decision was up to the Republican governor after the Assembly gave final legislative approval Wednesday, 83-52, to a measure to legalize such sales. A widely ignored and decades-old law makes it illegal for any person to give or sell any information or devices for the prevention of conception.

These were other developments Wednesday: —Democrats overrode Republican objections as the Senate approved a bill that would raise state aid to education by $60 million a year. The bill was approved, 43-13, and dispatched to the Assembly.

—The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill to require counties to pay legal fees for needy defendants.

—Democrats mustered all their Senate voting strength to pass, 32-25, a bill that would give voters of a party the final say in selecting candidates.

—Among the factors in Rockefeller's deliberations on the birth-control bill are the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to such legislation and a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision that tossed out a Connecticut ban on such sales.

Cashmere wool is never shorn.

DOUBLE TRIBUTE—Spain plans to issue a companion to this United States commemorative stamp marking the 400th anniversary of the settlement of Florida. The American version will be issued Aug. 28 in St. Augustine, which was founded by the Spanish and is the oldest continuous settlement in the United States. A duplicate of the design has been sent to Madrid, at the request of the government of Spain.

Will Name Wilson To Commission on River Planning

Assemblyman Kenneth J. Wilson of Ulster County announced today that he has received word from Governor Rockefeller that he will be appointed as a member of the Advisory Committee which has been created to assist the Hudson River Valley Commission in developing plans and recommendations for the protection and preservation of the area along the shores of the Hudson River.

Upon the recommendation of Assemblyman Wilson three prominent area residents, William J. Haggerty, president of the State University at New Paltz, Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., have been already been named to serve on the Governor's Advisory Committee. Another area legislator, State Senator R. Watson Pomeroy of Poughkeepsie, also has been named by Gov. Rockefeller to serve on the committee.

The recently created Hudson

River Valley Commission will have the job of developing plans for the best use of the natural resources of the entire Hudson Valley, and to make recommendations as to how these plans are to be carried out for the best possible advantage of all concerned. Those appointed to the Advisory Committee will assist the commission on all of these problems and will work closely with the commission on a series of proposed regional meetings. These regional meetings will give local business and civic groups, local government and local planning organizations a chance to discuss pressing problems in their immediate areas.

The Ulster County Assemblyman said that he considered Ulster County and the entire Catskill Mountain area of vital importance in any program designed to preserve and protect the natural resources of the Hudson Valley, and that he was looking forward to the opportunity of serving on a committee which, "may very well lay the necessary groundwork for the fuller use and enjoyment of the Hudson Valley by its present residents, as well as of all future generations."

Turnpike Term

The word "turnpike" comes from olden days. The pike was a pole, set on a vertical post so as to bar movement along a road. When a fee was paid, the pike was turned and the traveler passed through.

Central Suggests Shifting Traffic To Pennsylvania

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Central Railroad, in an effort to promote repeal of this state's Full Crew Law, is suggesting that much of its traffic might be diverted to Pennsylvania.

Alfred E. Perlman, president of the Central, was in Albany Wednesday to confer with Gov. Rockefeller concerning possible repeal of the law, which stipulates the number of crewmen on trains. Rockefeller favors repeal.

Management argues that modern trains do not need the manpower required a half century ago. Union men argue that safety and jobs are involved.

The union argument has been relaxed somewhat, however, by management assertions that jobs would be terminated only as they were vacated.

Perlman told The Knickerbocker News that a study was under way to determine whether the mountainous roadbed of the Pennsylvania Railroad might not be more economical than the flat lines through New York, if the two railroads merge, as expected, and if New York's Full Crew Law is retained. Pennsylvania does not have such a law.

City Problems Expect Senate Passage of Bill On Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to pass within a month the administration bill aimed at turning a national spotlight on city problems by creating a Cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Weaver Possibility

If it does, Senate sources wouldn't be too surprised if President Johnson names Robert C. Weaver, a Negro who heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the first secretary of the new department.

This was the educated guessing on Capitol Hill in the wake of House approval of the bill Wednesday by a 217-184 vote.

Johnson has never even hinted who he would name to head the new department, which would be the 11th of Cabinet rank and the first added since the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was established by executive order in April 1953.

President John F. Kennedy, who originally suggested an urban affairs department, had announced he would name Weaver.

This was considered instrumental in House defeat of the proposal in 1962.

The bill would combine the activities of the Federal Housing Administration and the Federal National Mortgage Administration, both within Weaver's HHEF. In fact, Republicans suggested during the two days of House debate that all the legislation would accomplish would be to upgrade the housing agency.

Demis Reject Argument

Democrats rejected this argument.

The Senate has completed hearings on the bill and its Government Operations Committee is expected to endorse the measure toward the end of next week. But there is no great rush to bring the bill to the floor. Still, passage by mid-July is considered likely.

A total of 208 Democrats and 9 Republicans voted for the bill; 66 Democrats and 118 Republicans voted against it.

Child Swallows Metal

Denise Kappell, 20-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Kappell, Shokan, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's ambulance Wednesday afternoon, after she swallowed a piece of metal at home. The child was returned home after emergency treatment at the hospital, it was reported.

U.S., OAS and Communists All Look Bad in Domingo Crisis

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States, the Organization of American States and the Communist movement all have managed to look bad in the Dominican Republic crisis.

The Communists may yet prove to have fared worst of all.

When the crisis broke late in April, the immediate fear in Western hemisphere capitals was that U.S. military action in the Caribbean island would present the Communists a golden opportunity to provoke riot and confusion.

The extremists were credited with having a blueprint for Latin-American revolution supposedly drawn up last November in Havana marking priority targets in the hemisphere. Perhaps, the word was at first, they would lie low for a while to take fullest advantage of the Dominican events before striking.

Opportunity Fades

The glittering opportunity began to fade, however, as the Dominican civil war bogged down into a gliding match between the two sides and efforts by the OAS and the United States to win some sort of peace. The Latin-American public recovered from the initial shock. After nearly two months it no longer is a sensation. In many areas it is regarded with fairly widespread apathy by a public intent upon its own immediate troubles.

This has provoked speculation about the extreme left and its potential. Has it been given credit for more strength and power than it really possesses?

The strength of the extreme left has come from young, reckless hoodlums, some of them in their teens, some of them spoiled brats of middle- and upper-class families—products of university campus recruiting grounds.

May Provoke Violence

Often, a few dozen of these hoodlums can stir up so much confusion in a Latin-American city it may seem to outsiders that a whole country is about to take fire. On domestic issues they are able to rally crowds and sometimes provoke them to violence.

But so far as violence for the sake of violence is concerned, the Dominican crisis seems to indicate such activities are beginning to lose some of the glitter which attracted young men in the past.

If the Communists and Castroists get some place in Latin America, it probably will not be because of the Dominican crisis. It will be because terror and mayhem are effective against irresolute politicians of the center.

Riot Ingredients

Since World War II there have been about 75 coups and government explosions in Latin America. If governments fall now, if crowds riot in the streets, if revolution strikes, it will be because the ingredients for explosion long have been present: Politics based on contempt of the distant past, widespread illiteracy, poverty, and the power struggles of small groups.

There is little question that U.S. prestige has been damaged by the Dominican situation, more so because of the situation dragged on so long. Many Latin Americans, even friends of the United States, express conviction that Washington acted from panicky fear of the Communists and created in the Dominican Republic something worse than was there at the start.

But Latin Americans also ask what happened to the Communist threat? Why were the Communists unable to capitalize on the Dominican crisis? Why did so many extremist efforts fizzle? There are those in Latin America who say the crisis hurt the Communists by exposing their weaknesses.

There still is a threat and a serious one. But if the Dominican crisis was an indicator, the cohesion necessary to provoke widespread riot in the cities has dwindled. Governments now display increasing confidence that their police and armed forces can deal with the plots and threats which remain.

Roosevelt to Appeal to Fair Play in Equal Employment Job

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON, (AP) — "Our policy," said the tall man — his blue eyes red-rimmed for lack of sleep and his hair untrimmed for lack of time — "Our policy is 'No persecution'."

The tall man is Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 50. The reason for the sleeplessness and the uncut hair is that he has just been appointed and confirmed to one of the toughest jobs in the federal government, and he has little time to lose.

He is chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and his path-breaking job is to administer Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. This title, which takes effect July 2, outlaws job discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Complaints Start

Already complaints of discrimination have begun to arrive at the commission, and unless it acts fast it is sure to be under fire. But first there is the problem of selecting a commission staff, setting up offices around the nation and drawing up rules and regulations.

Roosevelt took a few minutes out to sit with a reporter on a big black leather couch at the Commerce Department, where he has been undersecretary, and define his general approach to the new job.

Will Appeal to Fairness

"We seek to persecute no one," he said, "but will appeal to the highest sense of fair play and equality among all groups."

He explained how he is trying to pick a staff — "trying to get people of good will with the highest talent."

This takes time, he said. If it is done in haste, "we might get six months down the road and find we had the wrong people."

Others Are Named On Commission For Scenic Hudson

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced three appointments today to two organizations designed to protect and preserve the resources of the Hudson River.

Mrs. Gene Robb of Loudonville, wife of the publisher of the Albany Times-Union and Knickerbocker News, and Assemblyman Willis H. Stephens of Brewster were named to the newly created Hudson River Valley Commission.

William J. Cannon, vice president and general manager of the Tarrytown News, was appointed a member of the advisory committee to assist the commission.

In other appointments announced Wednesday, Rockefeller appointed New York City's new police commissioner, Vincent Broderick, to the Municipal Police Training Council and named two other council members.

Reappointed to the non-salaried agency were Chautauque County Sheriff Charles McCloskey Jr., who had been the chairman, and Poughkeepsie Police Chief John L. Martin Jr.

Completes Course

William Tillson who resides at Stone Ridge, has successfully completed the four-day Industrial Workshop Course at the MULTI-AMP Institute in Cranford, N. J. The instruction consisted of lecture and workshop periods in the testing of electrical protective devices (motor overload relays, protective relays, molded case circuit breakers, and low voltage power circuit breakers). Tillson is employed at American Telephone & Telegraph Company, Lake Katrine.

COVER-UP JOB—This is the latest look in rainy-day garb for the youngest set. The rain "caper" exposing a lot of knee but not much else was shown with a New York fashion collection.

So for the time being, he is negotiating for the temporary loan of persons from other government agencies. For one thing they will form task forces on rules and regulations, and on relations with state and local Fair Employment Practices Commissions.

Complaints Start

The new federal law lays heavy stress on cooperation with these states. In fact, the Roosevelt commission's hands are largely tied until a complainant has time to appeal to these states for corrective action.

The commission is expected to establish regional offices in New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Albuquerque.

After that it will get rolling on what Roosevelt hopes will be a great conciliation task. His Commerce Department job paid $28,500 a year, the new one $27,000.

Urges Soft Music In Traffic Rush

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Can rock 'n' roll music on car radios lead to a different kind of rush-hour bop?

It's possible, says John Anello, cultural director for Milwaukee County parks and music director of a local opera company. Anello suggests stations should soothe the driver with soft music.

He said, "When you have music with a certain tempo and certain dissonances and you are irritated with automobile traffic, you may step it up to keep pace with the music. It's amazing how certain pulsations of music affect you."

The Pacific Ocean is twice the size of the Atlantic Ocean.

Most on the Cuff

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana Radio says that out of 57,833 Cuban women working on farms in Oriente Province, only 12,270 are paid. The rest are volunteers, the broadcast said.

The figures were released during a meeting of the government-controlled Cuban Women's Federation in Santiago de Cuba and were monitored in Miami Wednesday.

Dies of Injuries

LITTLE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Richard Holt, 4, died Wednesday of injuries suffered Tuesday when he was struck by an automobile on route 42 in Napoli, four miles west of this Cattaraugus County community.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Holt.

U. S. Policy Makers Discount Diplomacy

Course of Combat in Viet Nam Likely to Decide Way to Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP/Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the judgment of U. S. policy makers the prospects for peace in Viet Nam are more likely to be decided by the course of combat over the next several months than by diplomatic maneuvers in this and other world capitals.

Officials say President Johnson is determined to press his peace offensive at every opportunity, even while expanding military operations.

At the moment officials here are looking to a conference of British Commonwealth leaders in London for some possible new move for the negotiations. The Johnson administration will undoubtedly welcome one, if it comes.

Several other peace conference possibilities, arising from proposals made in the past by Britain, India and the United States among others, are still open. The possibility that Johnson might order another pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam is not ruled out, officials say.

Reds See Victory

But the conviction in high quarters here today is that the Communist North Vietnamese, the Red Chinese and the Red Viet Cong leaders in South Viet Nam still believe they can win the war. They are therefore not interested in negotiations at this time on any terms acceptable to the United States and South Viet Nam.

This conclusion is drawn in a still secret, 13-point paper, summarizing peace moves on Southeast Asia over more than four years. The paper was recently prepared by the State Department for Johnson and lists 13 major types of peace probes and proposals, all of which have faltered or failed.

The basic assessment in Washington of the current Vietnamese situation is that with the recent onset of the monsoon season the Communists decided on major offensive operations in the belief that bad weather would seriously hamper U. S. air actions. The Communists thus would hope to win extensive victories on the ground in South Viet Nam.

Counter Strategy

The U. S. counter strategy for this period is to convince the Reds that they cannot win in this manner and that the United States will throw into the fight whatever is required to prevent their taking over South Viet Nam. The U. S. hope is that after several months the Communists will be compelled to reassess their position and prospects, perhaps taking a different view of peace negotiations.

Against this background, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday that 16,000 to 21,000 more American troops are going into South Viet Nam in the immediate future. They will raise the total American strength there to nearly 75,000 men of whom 21,000 will be ground combat personnel. Last week it was disclosed that U. S. troops will fight side by side with South Vietnamese troops when necessary.

The State Department's 13 points on peace negotiations range from direct talks with the Soviet Union and Red China to Johnson's offer last April of "unconditional discussions" to a Canadian approach to North Viet Nam last month. In the last few days the paper has been circulated to U. S. embassies abroad, evidently to arm diplomats with information to counter critics of American policy in Southeast Asia.

Target, North Viet Nam

The document does not say with whom the United States would be prepared to negotiate, if and when peace talks can be arranged. Washington officials say privately, however, that the U. S. peace target, like its war target, is North Viet Nam, and they assume negotiations would be conducted primarily with that country and Red China.

They say the United States and South Viet Nam do not intend to negotiate directly with the "National Liberation Front" — the Communist Political arm in South Viet Nam. But the United States would not object if "National Liberation Front" leaders were part of the North Vietnamese negotiating team.

Here is a summary of the 13 points covered in the 11-page State Department review of peace efforts so far:

1. The United States has held many talks on Southeast Asian problems with the Soviet Union, including the conference at Vienna in June 1961 between President John F. Kennedy and the Soviet Premier at that time, Nikita S. Khrushchev. The United States hoped that the result of the Kennedy-Khrushchev agreement on Laos (a neighbor of Viet Nam) would be the neutralization of that country, but the Communist Pathet Lao backed and supported by North Viet Nam frustrated that hope.

Red China Angle

The United States has also held long series of talks with Red China at the ambassadorial level in Warsaw, Poland. These talks have shown the United States that Red China is not interested in any Southeast Asian settlement except one which would result in the ouster of U. S. influence from the area.

2. A 14-nation, East-West conference at Geneva in 1961-62 agreed to neutralize Laos. In line with the agreement the United States withdrew all its military advisory personnel from Laos. But Communist North Viet Nam failed to withdraw several thousand troops supporting the Pathet Lao. North Viet Nam also violated the agreement by infiltrating guerrilla fighters into South Viet Nam through jungle trails in neighboring Laos.

3. After Communist military gains in Laos in early 1964, neutralist Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma called for consultations among the Geneva conference powers. The United States took part but the Communist nations initiative was followed by proposals for meetings of various combinations of Communist and non-Communist countries concerned with the Laos crisis. Communist China and North Viet Nam blocked these moves and also prevented an International Control Commission composed of India, Canada, and Poland from carrying effective investigations in Communist-held territory in Laos. The United States still favors a new Geneva conference on Laos if the Communists will first demonstrate by action that a conference could produce results in pacifying the country.

Could Widen Aim

4. Britain proposed to the Soviet Union last February a conference on the future of the International Control Commission in Laos be held by members of the commission, plus the British, Soviet and Laotian governments. Such a conference could be widened to include North and South Viet Nam, Red China and the United States with the possibility of informal Vietnamese discussions. The Soviet Union has so far not responded to the British proposal.

5. In February 1964 Cambodia called for a four-power conference on its own neutrality and security, with Thailand, South Viet Nam, Cambodia and the United States participating. The United States and South Viet Nam replied favorably, but in March Cambodian leader Prince Norodom Sihanouk withdrew the proposal. This move was followed by other Cambodian conference proposals, with the United States generally favorable to a meeting. Such a conference, it was felt, could lead to talks on Viet Nam if Communist powers were included. A dispute arose, however, over whether South Viet Nam should be included, and Red China declared that only the "National Liberation Front" could speak for South Viet Nam.

Tonkin Gulf Incident

6. Last August when U. S. ships were fired on in the Gulf of Tonkin off the Vietnamese coast, the United States carried its dispute with North Viet Nam to the United Nations Security Council. Both Communist China and North Viet Nam took the position that the Security Council had no competence in the Vietnamese crisis. In April this year Red China and North Viet Nam both rebuffed U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant when he showed interest in visiting Peking and Hanoi for talks on Viet Nam.

7. Last Feb. 20 Britain with U. S. support proposed a British-Soviet exploration of the possible basis of a Vietnamese settlement. The Soviets, evidently under Red Chinese and North Vietnamese pressure, declined.

8. Ex-British Foreign Minister Patrick Gordon Walker visited South Viet Nam, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand and Burma in April to explore a possible Vietnamese settlement. He wanted to go to Red China and North Viet Nam but they declined to receive him.

9. On April 7, Johnson announced that the United States was prepared to engage in Vietnamese peace talks "unconditionally." Red China and North Viet Nam denounced his offer as a hoax.

10. On April 8 the United States agreed to a proposal by 17 non-aligned nations for peace talks without preconditions. Red China and North Viet Nam rejected the proposal.

Still Under Discussion

11. The Indian government has proposed cessation of hostilities in Viet Nam with boundaries to be policed by an Afro-Asian patrol force. The United States termed the proposition interesting and promised careful consideration. It is still discussing the proposal with the Indian government. Red China and North Viet Nam rejected the proposal.

12. The United States suspended bombing attacks on North Viet Nam May 13-17 (Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada and others had called for a pause in the air strikes to promote possible negotiations). The North Vietnamese news agency denounced the suspension as a "trick of deceit and threat." The Red Chinese news agency called it "a peace swindle."

13. A Canadian representative went to Hanoi to discuss the pause in the bombing. The North Vietnamese foreign minister told him that four conditions stood in the way of negotiations urged by the United States, Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin reported. Martin decided that North Viet Nam and Communist China were not interested in peace overtures. (North Vietnamese conditions have been reported as specifying principally that the United States get out of South Viet Nam and that the Communist liberation front there handle any peace negotiations.)

Virginia colonists first brought cows to the United States.

Capitol News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has given final congressional approval to a bill that raises to $328 billion the legal limit on the national debt in the year that starts July 1.

The current ceiling is $324 billion but it would drop to the permanent limit of $285 billion July 1 in the absence of action. Senate passage Wednesday came first by a voice vote. Later the Republicans demanded a roll call and the measure was approved 61 to 26.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production rose in May for the seventh straight month.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Wednesday its index of industrial production rose from 140.8 in April to 141.3 in May. Last May, it stood at 131.3. The board's index uses 100 for the 1957-59 average.

Gains in output of machinery and other business equipment were a major factor in the increase.

The board said the rate industrial production is increasing has slowed in the last two months.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House have agreed to authorize expenditure of nearly $5.2 billion on the nation's civilian space program in the year which starts July 1.

Both houses gave voice-vote approval Wednesday to the bill, which is nearly $70 million less than President Johnson requested.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill which would require health warnings on cigarette packages.

Under the measure approved late Wednesday 72 to 5 and sent on to the House, cigarette packages would have to carry this warning: "Caution: Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

The bill carries a three-year moratorium against requiring such a statement in cigarette advertising.

House debate on the issue may start next week.

May Total 75,000

More Americans Are Going To Viet Nam in Few Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up its war effort in Viet Nam another notch, with 16,000 to 21,000 more American troops headed for the war zone.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday that nine more Army and Marine combat battalions, with supply and service units "will be in place in a few weeks."

The augmentation of American troop strength, long predicted, was taken at the request of the South Vietnamese government, the defense chief told a news conference. It will bring the total of U.S. troops in Viet Nam to between 70,000 and 75,000, he said.

His Reply

Will still more go later?

McNamara parried that question this way: "The secretary of state and I and the President have repeatedly said that we will do whatever is necessary to achieve our objective in South Viet Nam, and we won't do more than is necessary."

The revised total of American military personnel in Viet Nam — Army, Marines, Air Force and Navy — does not include 27,000 aboard ships of the 7th Fleet standing off the mainland. About 21,000 of the new total will be combat ground personnel, McNamara said.

This compares with a present strength of about 54,000. The difference is equivalent to something more than a full division, which averages about 17,000 men.

No Indication

But McNamara has given no indication of intending to put one or more complete divisions into Viet Nam at this time.

The procedure so far is to utilize only elements — battalions or smaller — of Army and Marine divisions.

Out of McNamara's news conference arose the possibility that elements of an entire new division, the formation of which he announced, might be sent to Viet Nam at some point.

He said that the Army has been authorized to organize a new airborne division as part of its current 16-division structure. Taking the name of the old 1st Cavalry Division, the outfit will have a strength of 15,787 and be transported by a swarm of 434 aircraft, about four times more aircraft than a conventional division possesses.

Mentions 8 Weeks

McNamara said the division, shaping up at Ft. Benning, Ga., could be ready for deployment in eight weeks if necessary.

McNamara gave a detailed run-down of targets hit and results of those strikes against depots, petroleum storage depots, bridges, ammunition dumps and troops barracks, summing up: "So I think the answer is that the attacks have been effective. They haven't stopped the flow of men and material. They have reduced the flow and they greatly increased the cost to the North Vietnamese of continuing their efforts to support the insurgency in South Viet Nam."

Threat to Police With Rifle Goes To Grand Jury

Alfred Bell, 34, of 146 Spring Street, charged with having barricaded himself in his apartment at that address June 1, and with having threatened police with a rifle, waived examination before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman, of a second degree assault charge and was held for grand jury action.

Police had called to the Spring Street apartment twice because of reported trouble. No police action followed the first call and Bell, officers said, barricaded himself in the apartment after the second and threatened to shoot anyone who entered. He was brought out with the aid of tear gas.

Bell was first taken to Middletown Hospital and later returned here to face the charge based on his alleged threat to use the gun on police.

Attorney Elmer Nathan appeared with Bell in court today. Robert Coughlin, 24, who police said, has no present address, was sentenced on malicious mischief and public intoxication charges. He was given 14 days in jail already served, on the former charge and a suspended sentence of 30 days for public intoxication. He was charged with having kicked and damaged the door of an automobile, and was ordered to make restitution.

Approval Given

Tuberculosis Hospital and the administrative office of Ulster County Civil Defense will move into this Emergency Operating Center on completion which is expected in about a year. It will be possible to control the entire county radio system from this underground center which will be entirely self-sufficient with auxiliary power and water supply. Rations will be stored for a two-week period for about 55 persons who will live here during a war-time emergency. All branches of Civil Defense will be represented as well as chief executives of city and county government. Local Law No. 1, 1963 was passed by the county Board of Supervisors Dec. 20, 1963 assuring continuity of government and the Kingston Common Council has been requested to pass a similar law.

Major Timmerman said that he hopes the additional preliminary work will continue without delay. He said that without this EOC-ASG no federal matching funds would be available as in the past for purchase of needed Civil Defense equipment, such as the county radio system for fire, police and highway.

Plans and specifications are being drawn up by the firm of Augustus R. Schrowang Associates which has been retained by the Board of Supervisors for this purpose.

Po'keepsie Man Awarded Carnegie Medal for Rescue

A 48-year-old Poughkeepsie IBM accountant, who rescued a three-year-old boy from drowning in the icy water of Wappingers Creek on Feb. 15, 1964, was named Wednesday as a recipient of a Carnegie Medal.

Nicholas John Evangelou, 48, Monday Drive, Town of Poughkeepsie, saved the life of Kurt A. Altman, a neighbor's son, who slipped through thin ice into 11 feet of water near his home. Evangelou, who underwent surgery for a ruptured spinal disc two years ago, leaped into the water and grabbed the child.

The courageous man had to break a path six feet through the ice before reaching solid ice where he lifted the boy, but was too weak to crawl out himself.

The boy's father, Eberhart K. Altman, arrived with another man and the two men used a board to haul Evangelou to safety.

In addition to a bronze medal, Evangelou will receive $500 for his act of heroism.

Buffalo Pilot . . .

Eight MIG fighters appeared and wheeled away when the American planes started to close in on them.

On April 4, Communist MIGs shot down two U.S. F105's on a bombing raid about 65 miles south of Hanoi. A pilot of an American F100 said he believed he hit one of the MIGs in that engagement and downed it.

On April 4, four MIGs jumped four U.S. Navy F4B planes in the Gulf of Tonkin off Red China's Hainan Island, and U.S. officials said one MIG was reported downed.

Flying From Midway

Page and Batson were flying from the carrier Midway. News of their success was flashed to Washington and U.S. Navy Secretary Paul H. Nitze radioed back congratulations "on the smashing of the first and second North Viet Nam MIGs."

A U.S. military spokesman explained that the MIG which the Navy pilot reported hitting off Hainan on April 4 was listed as a probable kill because it had only been seen to disappear into a cloud trailing smoke.

The MIG reportedly were in a "loose trail" formation, and the two missiles from the two Phantom's hit the second and third planes in the formation.

Were Headed South

The enemy planes were headed south, apparently trying to intercept a force of Navy fighter-bombers attacking a bridge near Thanh Hoa and the Yen Phu barracks. Other U.S. planes were attacking road traffic in the area.

The protective Phantom's normally fly some distance north of the bombers to stop any MIGs that may be sent down from the direction of Hanoi.

U.S. spokesmen said five buildings in the Yen Phu barracks area were destroyed. It has been attacked repeatedly in the past week.

It was a day of fairly heavy air strikes over North Viet Nam.

70 Hit Various Targets

Some 70 planes, including seven Vietnamese air force fighter-bombers, attacked a variety of targets, and spokesmen said all planes returned safely to their bases.

Heavy air strikes by U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps planes along with Vietnamese fighters also were made against the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam, spokesmen said.

U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told a news conference in Washington Wednesday that 16,000 to 21,000 more American troops are being sent to Viet Nam, bringing the total here to between 70,000 and 75,000.

McNamara said nine fresh Army and Marine combat battalions with supply and service units "will be in place in a few weeks."

Officials in Washington said the Johnson administration feels prospects for peace in Viet Nam are more likely to be decided by the course of combat over the coming months than by diplomatic maneuvers.

They said President Johnson is determined to press his peace offensive at every opportunity even while expanding military operations. But the expansion in official Washington is that North Viet Nam, Red China and the Viet Cong command all believe they can win the war.

of the right foot. She was unconscious when removed to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's ambulance, which took the other injured to the hospital.

According to a report of Trooper J. F. Czaplicki, who investigated at the scene, Cannon said an unknown car was stopping in front of his vehicle when he swerved to avoid collision and lost control.

Traffic on Route 9W was delayed for some time until workmen from utilities companies replaced the snapped off pole and the wires that fell on the highway.

Trooper Czaplicki issued a summons to Cannon for driving a car with unsafe tires. The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus.

Van Benschoten Dies; Was Early Area Auto Dealer

John Van Benschoten, 94, pioneer Poughkeepsie automobile dealer who at one time conducted a branch agency in Kingston, died Wednesday at his home in New Hamburg.

A champion high-level bicycle racer in the 1880's, he entered the automobile business as a salesman in 1900 and started his own agency in 1902. The Poughkeepsie agency is still operated by one of his sons, Wesley.

In 1946 he was selected to the automobile hall of fame of the Automobile Industry. A native of the town of La Grange, Van Benschoten became one of the area's earliest automobile dealers.

In his early days, as a bicycle enthusiast, Van Benschoten took part in many endurance runs, and won numerous medals in competition.

Two sons, Wesley and John R. Van Benschoten, both of Poughkeepsie, survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Schoonmaker Chapel, 73 Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie, Friday 11 a. m. Burial will be in Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel 7 to 9 p. m. today.

The President planned to pin on their chests the Exceptional Service medals of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Charles W. Mathews, manager of the Gemini program office of the Manned Space Center at Houston, Tex., was to receive the same award.

White's citation said that as "the first man to engage in self-propelled extra-vehicular activity" he expanded the knowledge of space environment.

McDivitt's: "His performance as command pilot significantly extended our knowledge of man's capabilities."

Mathews was honored for "his ability to resolve the most complex technological and managerial problems."

Watching and listening in the State Department auditorium will be diplomats of many nations. Then comes a reception at the State Department where the diplomats will greet the astronauts, Mathews and their families.

Wednesday, the astronauts' old home towns poured out tributes to them. The biggest crowd in the history of Jackson, Mich.—an estimated 125,000—lined a parade route for McDivitt. A youngster's sign said "By Gemini, you did it."

Cheering throngs estimated at 150,000 greeted White at San Antonio, Tex., and referring to his birth there, he said: "It's wonderful to be back in San Antonio which gave me a good start when I was launched at Ft. Sam Houston and started me on my way."

New Scandal in Italy

ROME (AP)—The Italian government has been rocked by a new scandal. Former Finance Minister, Giuseppe Trabucchi, has been accused of misusing government funds.

Trabucchi, already under investigation in connection with alleged irregularities in the import of tobacco, now is charged with shifting more than a billion lire—$1.6 million—in bonuses assigned to customs officials to other officials without proper authorization.

The Rome public prosecutor's office referred the latest charges to Parliament.

Other scandals over the last two years have involved customs, the atomic energy commission, the state banana monopoly, the health commission and a welfare agency for tubercular children.

Bank Assistant To Attend Brown Summer Classes

MRS. KAY SULLIVAN

An administrative assistant in the mortgage department at Kingston Savings Bank, Mrs. Kay Sullivan, is attending a two-week session of the Graduate School of Savings Banking at Brown University, Providence, R. I. She will return for two weeks during each of the next two summers to the school operated by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Her selection as a member of the freshman class at the school prompted Mrs. Sullivan to recall that on her graduation from Washington Irving High School in 1944 she was offered, but was unable to accept, a scholarship to Brown University's Rhode Island School of Design. "It seems I was destined to attend Brown University," she said.

In the intervening years, Mrs. Sullivan was employed in banking in New York City at the Northside Savings Bank, National City Bank, and Corn Exchange Bank, and for the past 10 years as a member of the Kingston Savings Bank staff. She also married and raised a family. Her husband, John L. Sullivan, is employed at IBM. They reside at Lake Katrine and have a daughter, currently attending Dutchess Community College, and a son, who will graduate this month from Kingston High School.

The Graduate School of Savings Banking was established in 1960 to give savings bank officers a thorough grounding in all phases of savings bank operations, fiscal theory, and management decision-making. Mrs. Sullivan will be one of 87 savings bankers and three government employees in the freshman class. The school has a total enrollment of 241, with 90 freshmen, 78 juniors, and 73 seniors, and a faculty of 92.

Church Organist 45 Years

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Not many organists can match the record of Mrs. M. C. Whitworth. She stepped down recently after 45 years at the organ of the Christian Missionary Alliance. Mrs. Whitworth had played continuously except for four years which she spent as a missionary in Chile starting in 1929.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bull market in beef continues strong and pork prices have fattened up to an 11-year wholesale high, but supplies of both are plentiful for the week-end food shopper.

As for poultry, broiler-fryers are the top buy.

Weekend food shoppers also generally will find good supplies of seasonal fruits and vegetables, particularly cabbage, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, onions, radishes, squash and tomatoes.

But despite the good supplies, prices of most food items continue high.

One national supermarket chain cut the price of beef rib roast from 89 cents a pound to 85 cents for its weekend special in the New York area, but the move does not indicate any price trend.

Reflecting the soaring wholesale prices of beef and pork in recent weeks, pork chops were boosted 6 cents to $1.09 a pound. Veal chops, the chain's special last week, recouped the entire 20-cent a pound cut and were priced for the weekend at $1.09. Egg prices generally were down from last week's levels and in ample supply.

Aquavita

The Latin term used to describe distilled spirits was "aquavita," or "water of life," and this later was translated by the Scots and Irish into the Celtic "uisgebeatha" and was shortened to "whisky".

Editor, The Freeman:

Although I am a newcomer to this area, I would like to take this opportunity to urge support of the public in the Miss New York State Beauty Pageant.

Having been associated with them, both on a state and local level in Michigan, as chaperone, coordinator and judge, I have had an opportunity to observe the results of these pageants, not only for the participants, but for the community as a whole.

I know of no better way for the public to encourage the young women of today than to support the Miss America local and state pageants for the charm, poise and talent displayed by them is the best advertising a community can have.

The Chambers of Commerce throughout the nation who sponsor these events are to be commended, and deserve our wholehearted support.

'Fautasi' Boats

Western Samoans call their huge longboats "fautasi". These superb sailors evolved their racing craft from whale boats and skim them across the water propelled by 40 or more oarsmen, while the coxswain beats out the tempo on a tin can.

Use that leftover meat loaf for an hors d'oeuvre. Cut it into small squares and broil; brush with butter, if you like, during the broiling. Tastes good with tomato juice.

No End in View To Cement Firm Strike at Alpha

A strike of employees at Alpha Portland Cement Co. plant at Cementon, called early in May by Local 53, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union, today was nearing the end of the sixth week.

J. B. Wilson, plant manager, said there was no indication of a settlement. He noted that a meeting between management and union representatives was held early last week without results. No future meeting has been scheduled to discuss negotiations, the plant official said.

The plant shut down completely on May 8, when picket lines were set up around the plant property. Earlier, Wilson reported 102 union workers were on strike.

In a previous statement, Wilson said there were the basic issues that had not been agreed upon by management. He said the issues were that the company was faced with a union demand for new job classifications which management could not meet; that a second demand for management rights, and that the third issue was the union demands for higher wages.

The old contract expired on May 1.

Record Flood

radio Highway Patrol at 15 to 20 feet high swept down the usually shallow South Platte as it roared into Denver from the south.

Tears Out Bridges

On the way, it tore out highway bridges, covered up roads and lapped menacingly at railroad trestles.

Gov. John A. Love made a personal inspection of part of the flood area and called it appalling and unbelievable.

Power and telephone service was disrupted in the Denver suburbs.

Sheriff Roy Vogt of suburban Arapahoe County said thousands of residents of Littleton and Englewood, Denver suburbs, were evacuated and confirmed that hundreds of homes were flooded as the waters rolled into the populous area.

Vogt reported 200 house trailers were lost in one park west of the river at Littleton.

Evacuations preceded the flood crest as it moved across Denver from south to north. Among the buildings cleared was Denver's Union Station. Train and bus schedules to the south were canceled.

Emergency shelters were set up in Denver—at the City Auditorium, at the University of Denver fieldhouse, at Loretto Heights College, at several high schools and in some churches.

Two Barrel In

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — A store offered $50 in clothing to the first person to enter wearing only a barrel — but had to award duplicate prizes.

Keith Anderson and Paul Balbas raced for the narrow entrance at the same time, Crunch went Anderson's barrel in a collision witnessed by 150 people recently.

The barrel went to pieces and Anderson tried vainly to stave off nudity until he could be hustled inside — and into more conventional attire.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plunged ahead early this afternoon but the pace of trading was considerably slower than on the previous two days of sharp rallying.

The general pattern was irregularly higher, with gains running from fractions to about a point among key stocks.

The slightly higher trend was evident on balance from the opening. After a period of hesitation, buying pressure distinctly overcame the tendency to sell.

Motors, which wobbled for most of the morning, posted a couple of thin gains. Steels moved ahead. The trend was generally higher among rubbers, aerospace issues, chemicals, electrical equipments, oils and office equipments.

Airlines and tobacco worked a little lower.

Glowing statements by administration officials about prospects for the economy apparently overcame concern about steepened U.S. military commitments in South Viet Nam.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 322.5 with industrials up 1.9, rails up .1 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.59 at 883.66.

Amid the generally firm atmosphere, however, an unusual number of sizable blocks were unloaded, most of them at lower prices. Korvette sank 3 1/2 to 33 on 57,000 shares. Control Data lost 2 1/2 at 45 1/2 on blocks of 38,400 and 48,900 shares; Montgomery Ward was off 5/8 at 33 1/2 on 33,100 shares. Union Pacific fell 1/4 to 37 1/2 on 19,900 shares. Halliburton Co. was unchanged at 41 1/2 on 11,300 shares.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Red Cross Aid Program Marks 10th Anniversary

The past Memorial Day marked the 10th anniversary of a special American Red Cross program in which food and other parcels are sent to Americans imprisoned in China, it was revealed today.

Officials of the Ulster County ARC Chapter said that an arrangement was established in 1955 whereby the ARC working in close cooperation with British and Chinese Red Cross officials, delivered such parcels to imprisoned Americans, and that a similar service was subsequently made available to Americans in Viet Nam.

Four Still There

A local chapter spokesman said that when the ARC began delivering food and family packages at the Lowu Bridgehead, which separates British Hong 44 American airmen and civilians, including missionaries and priests, were detained in China. Four still remain there: Bishop James E. Walsh, Cumberland, Md.; John Downey, New Britain, Conn.; Richard Fecteau, Lynn, Mass. and Hugh Redmond, Yonkers. The monthly provision of Red Cross and family parcels began May 30, 1955, following successful negotiations with Chinese Red Cross officials. And thus it is that on the day when our nation honors its war dead, the American Red Cross also has been remembering the living held captive in a foreign land far from home.

How much the Red Cross service means to such prisoners is reflected by the following excerpt from a letter written to American Red Cross Vice President Robert C. Lewis by Rev. John F. Walsh, Chesterfield, Mo., mother of one of the detainees:

"I take this opportunity to again thank you and the entire personnel of our American Red Cross for the tremendous help and encouragement you have brought to James and our entire family. Words fail utterly to express the deep gratitude in our hearts for your gracious and generous help through the years."

Visits Arranged

In addition to having delivered some 2,000 Red Cross and family parcels by way of Hong Kong during the past 10 years, the American Red Cross has obtained permission through the Chinese Red Cross for relatives to visit some of the prisoners and has helped with transportation and other services for them. Illustrating the success of such efforts are the four visits that Mrs. Mary Downey has made to her son. Such visits have confirmed that the prisoners have received their packages.

Somewhat similar service is being provided for American military prisoners and civilians held prisoners in North and South Viet Nam. Arrangements worked out with the North Vietnamese Red Cross by the International Committee of the Red Cross have made possible regular mail delivery to these individuals. Also, the American Red Cross was able to obtain a group picture of four prisoners for their families.

In March, the International Committee of the Red Cross announced that for the first time the Viet Cong Communist authorities in South Viet Nam had accepted the delivery of letters and parcels for captured Americans. Delivery was made through the neighboring Cambodian Red Cross.

During the past decade the American Red Cross has helped Americans detained in other parts of the world. Included were U. S. helicopter crewmen who landed in East Germany and Americans detained in Cuba by the Castro regime.

American Red Cross President James F. Collins has emphasized that families of Americans held prisoner in Viet Nam may rest assured that the American Red Cross is doing everything possible, in keeping with the provisions of the Geneva Convention, to provide aid and comfort for these men.

The American Red Cross work depends solely on contributions from the public. Through the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Ulster County Community Chest local residents make contributions to these activities.

Hardenbergh Shooting Is Probed Today

A fatal shooting in the Turnwood section of Town of Hardenbergh was under investigation by State Police from Ellenville and Margaretville stations today. No information was available at press time as to details.

Ferndale State Police reported a shooting had been discovered about 9:15 a. m. in the Turnwood area. It was believed to have been a hunting accident. Ellenville BCI unit members with Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson went to the scene. Margaretville troopers reported they were also investigating.

American Dead

soldiers died of wounds suffered in the fighting Tuesday.

Another 30 U. S. soldiers were reported wounded in shooting Tuesday and Wednesday between the peace force and the rebels in downtown Santo Domingo. A Brazilian officer wounded Tuesday was taken off the critical list.

Three-Hour Firing

Firing was heavy for more than three hours Wednesday afternoon along the northern corridor of the international security zone. U. S. paratroopers fired 50-caliber machine guns, recoilless rifles and other automatic weapons at buildings in the crowded slum area where snipers were believed hiding.

Caamano gave his report of casualties in the rebel sector at a news conference and accused U. S. troops of committing "an act of genocide without precedent in our country." The previous unofficial count of Dominican casualties was 26 dead and more than 75 wounded.

Makes Charges

The rebel leader charged that a Red Cross center in Ozama fortress was "grotesquely bombed" and women and children were killed in the fortress on the west bank of the Ozama River. It faces U. S. positions on the east bank.

Caamano also repeated rebel charges that the U. S. troops opened fire on the rebels Tuesday, touching off the 12-hour battle. The mediating team of the Organization of American States reported earlier that the rebels fired first.

Rebel leaders claimed that the U. S. objective was to force the rebels into a more flexible negotiating position.

280 Prisoners

An OAS spokesman announced that the American troops took 280 prisoners in extending their lines four blocks below the international corridor during the fighting Tuesday.

The Americans pulled back two blocks, but the OAS committee said the other blocks would be held until Caamano gave "satisfactory assurances that this type of violation of the cease-fire, resulting in death and injuries to civilian and military personnel, will not occur again."

American officials took the view that the outbreak was inspired by a sharply anti-U. S. demonstration in the rebel sector Monday at which a speaker for the pro-Castro 14th of June Movement urged "liquidation of Yankee imperialists in the country."

Diversification:
Good Insurance

Q "I do not subscribe to the idea of diversification in investments. I believe it is only an excuse for poor selection. I want to put every dollar I can get my hands on into Xerox. Please give me your views." R. A.

A I have only one view with respect to your question—and that is that you'd better sit back and think of what would happen if you did make a mistake. The most thorough method of selection imagination will not guarantee you stock market profits. Investing is an art which deals with the future, and since the future is an unknown quantity, there is not way to be absolutely certain of your judgment.

In order to protect yourself against irretrievable loss, you can diversify your holdings. Most investors, of course, follow the latter plan. I recommend that you consider it, too. Diversification is no excuse, but rather a form of insurance against large losses in any individual situation.

Q "I seem to recall that you recommended American Hospital Supply as a desirable growth stock I am interested in it but lately it has been acting poorly. What is the cause of such action?" G. J. E. K.

A I have recommended, and I continue to recommend, American Hospital Supply as fine issue for long-term growth. It has slipped a little in price because a pending merger with W. H. Curtin Company, an important distributor of industrial and laboratory supplies, has been held up by the Justice Department by means of a civil anti-trust suit.

All stock—even strong growth issues—are temporarily affected by what the market considers a setback. I estimate that earnings will rise at least ten per cent in 1965, and I advise you to buy American Hospital Supply. I believe that with reasonable patience this stock—which should be added greatly by a well care bill—will work out well for you.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

City Truck Is Removed From River, Lucas Ave. Man Held

A well soaked city dump truck was removed from the Hudson this morning by a public works force and a young man allegedly responsible for immersing it is due for grand jury action.

Police charged Edward J. Ulrich, 22, of 203 Lucas Avenue with second degree grand larceny and third degree burglary, after a report that he had taken the truck from an enclosure at the city refuse disposal site at Kingston Point and had driven it into the river.

A report at 12:46 a. m. said someone had just driven a truck into the river in the beach area and ran from the site. Several officers were dispatched to the area and Ulrich was apprehended.

Goes Under Fence

Police said they were told that Ulrich had been taking a walk in the area when he decided to enter the refuse disposal property, part of which is enclosed by a high wire fence. Police were told that he failed to climb the fence, but got under it.

It is charged that he drove the truck through locked gates and continued on until he plunged it into the river.

Ulrich appeared before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman today with Attorney William J. Dwyer Jr., waived examination for grand jury action. He was released in the custody of his parents.

Big Day Off From the War

Spends Major Part Looking For Some Milk or Ice Cream

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was his first day of liberty in more than a month. He had planned to spend it in town seeing the sights.

But it was 11 a.m. when Sgt. Daniel F. Hall, 22, of Pottstown, Pa., returned from a six-day patrol to the tent area of Able Company, 3rd Regiment, U.S. Marines.

By the time he had showered, shaved, put on his summer khakis, and hitched a ride, it was after 2 p.m. Since he had to start back by 7 o'clock, his day of liberty had dwindled to only five hours.

That was more than enough for the tall, hazel-eyed young sergeant, who is third in command of his rifle platoon.

"I thought it would do me good to get into town and have a change of scenery," said Hall, whose checkbook has been burned cherry red by the dozen or more patrols he has been on since he came here March 10. Sipping a cup of coffee at the USO building here, Hall told of his big day off from the war: "I've spent most of it trying to find some milk or ice cream. No luck. When I got home the first thing I'm going to do is to go to a supermarket and buy a gallon of milk. That's what I miss."

"I walked around the streets looking for something to buy. I bought a tin trunk for $3. I wanted to get something nice as souvenirs for my wife, Suzanne, and my children—Daniel F. Jr.—he's 4—and my daughter, Lisa Marie—she's 2½. But I couldn't find anything worth sending. Just a lot of junk."

"I walked along the waterfront and saw the old ladies selling bread and straw mats and quarreling over fish the sampans had just brought in, and a bunch of kids followed me hollering 'Hello, Kay.'"

"I was feeling kind of weird. I just wanted to get away from everybody, and maybe listen to a few records. I wasn't exactly homesick. Everybody wants to go home."

"Then I passed a hotel where another Marine and I had lunch together the last time I had liberty. That made me feel blue, because it wasn't long after that he was killed, one of only two we had in our company who were killed about home."

"You know, this is the first war I've been in, and it is kind of hard to classify. One of the enemy's village recruits can take a few potshots at you, then hide his gun, and you can't tell him from a rice farmer. We have to be awful careful about firing."

The sergeant looked at his watch. He still had an hour and a half left.

I asked the sergeant if he minded returning to the hills after so short a leave.

"Well, I'm not crazy about battling around those hot hills and being shot at," he replied slowly, "but that is the job we were sent over here to do."

"I think about life quite a lot when I'm sleeping out here on the ground under the stars. And it seems to me the trick in life is to do well whatever you set out to do. If you do, you're fat."

Art Connoisseur Lauds Kennedy's Hospital Pictures

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talented, the eminent art director mused, as he looked at a sample of the young fellow's work. Talented. All he needs is some years to develop himself.

The young artist is Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts and the sample of his work is a painting of a couple of sturdy fishing boats, one green, one blue, tied alongside a brick building at Marblehead, Mass.

Now the art connoisseur, John Walker, director of the National Gallery of Art, rendered his judgment with full recognition of the circumstances under which this and other Ted Kennedy paintings were executed.

A year ago June 19, Kennedy and friends were on a plane trip to Massachusetts. The plane came down — "like a toboggan ride through the treetops," as Kennedy later related.

Kennedy fastened his seat belt, but his back was broken. The pilot and a Kennedy aide were killed, everybody else aboard was hurt.

So it was six months in a Boston hospital for Kennedy, strapped onto a thing called a Stryker frame. This holds your back immobile but if you get tired looking at the ceiling, it will flip you over on your stomach.

So what did Ted do? For his blonde wife Joan he did a winter landscape with a covered bridge and New England farmhouse. For Mrs. John F. Kennedy a red cottage on a spit of sand with a sailboat on the horizon. And so on.

Present For Parents

The picture of the two Marblehead boats was presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy. When the Washington Post printed a color reproduction of it, an Associated Press newsmen submitted the print to gallery director Walker for his comment.

Walker dictated the following statement, and note what a diplomat he turns out to be:

"Sen. Kennedy is a talented painter. Like Winston Churchill, he may not have all the time he wishes to develop this talent until his retirement, which we hope will be many years hence."

All told, the senator did seven paintings in the hospital.

Right now, Kennedy doesn't have too much time for painting. Politics is his main work, and many of his Senate colleagues figure he is a comer.

Kennedy, now 33, was first elected to the Senate in 1962 to fill out two years in a seat once held by his brother, the late president. While in the hospital, he was re-elected to a full six-year term in 1964.

"The best politician in the family," John F. Kennedy once called him — and some experts figure he has even more command over Massachusetts politics than his brother ever did.

Greatest number of lives lost during a U.S. storm was in the hurricane of Sept. 8, 1900, when a tidal wave swept over the city of Galveston, Tex., leaving more than 5,000 dead.

Mary—I shuddered when Tom proposed.
Marie—Was he so awkward?
Mary—Oh, no; he did it so well.

Hal—Why are birds melancholy in the morning?
Cal—Because their little bills are all over dew.

The elephant's had his day. Now it's the chicken's turn for notice the joking way. On college campuses, at least, embryonic eggheads are scratching the pachyderm in favor of the chicken.

Samples of chicken jokes:
Q. What kind of an automobile does a chicken drive?
A. A yolkswagen.
Q. Where do you get chicken dressing?
A. At Peck and Peck.
Q. What name is erroneously applied to baby chickens?
A. Chicklets.
Students explain the chicken coup over the elephant this way:
"We just think it's time to bring a high-class status to the lowly chicken bird."
"It's our answer to the war-on-the-chicks—the 34-24-34 breed."

Taking the biblical description literally, Noah's ark was about two-thirds the size of the Queen Mary, the ocean liner.

The dog came bounding down the lane, emitting whelps at every bound.

Here lies the bones of Richard Lawton. Whose death, alas! was strangely brought on. Trying his corns one day to mow off. His razor slipped and cut his toe off. His toe, or, rather, what it grew to. An infirmation quickly flew to. Which took alas! to mortifying. And was the cause of Richard's dying.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two weeks from today the government is set to give many of you a lift where it counts — in your pocketbook. Washington hopes this will go a long way toward offsetting or even blocking the general economic slowdown that stock traders and others have been fearing.

For some the increased income will come as a boost in Social Security benefits, with a lump sum due shortly to make the larger old age payments effective from the first of this year. The total will be around $1.5 billion this year.

For many others the lift will come in a cut in federal excise taxes on a wide list of goods and services. The windfall totals around $5 billion a year for consumers and manufacturers.

For the military there is a pay boost in the making.

And this year you are getting the benefit of the second stage of the cut in personal income tax rates. The money withheld from your paycheck isn't affected because this was cut the entire amount last year. But in figuring what's due the Internal Revenue Service, you'll be using lower tax rates for the same income bracket. Your personal income this year should be affected by one or more of these measures — whether it will be larger payments by the government or smaller tax collections.

But the government expects that people will respond to the increased money in their pockets, or the lower prices on goods and services freed of excise taxes, by spending more.

In turn, this spending can ripple out through the economy. Example: If lower prices on cars because of reduced taxes leads more persons to buy them, then the car makers will be producing more, buying more from their suppliers, hiring more workmen.

And all those benefiting from this will also be getting more money — and will be expected to spend more.

This is counted on to give the second half of 1965 a lift that Wall Street apparently thinks it will be needing.

But also in the weeks and months ahead the government will step up its spending in many other lines — aerospace and defense contracts, or federal aid to schools, highway construction, and new and old forms of social welfare.

Some will benefit directly. Others will gain because communities will get contracts or increased federal funds, and local business is stimulated.

Business firms, large and small, have stepped up their plans for spending on new plants and equipment. This, too, can ripple out through the economy. For many it can mean jobs, or longer work weeks, or increased sales on goods produced or new contracts and subcontracts.

Trinity Methodist Confirms 7 Youths

Sunday, June 13, the Rev. Richard R. Guice confirmed and received into the membership of the Trinity Methodist Church seven youths.

Members of the confirmation class were Robert S. Allen, Joseph Bailey, Gary F. Lewis, Karen B. Lowe, Marion Miller, Sharon L. Rutledge, and Brenda St. Paul.

Their reception into membership culminated three and a half months of intensive study. The class meets weekly and took three field trips. One trip was to the Greek Orthodox Church, Kingston, where Mrs. Nicholas Katsoulis met the class and explained the meaning of the sanctuary and something of the history of the church. Two trips were completed to New York City. The class visited John Street Methodist Church, oldest Methodist Church in United States; Christ Church, Methodist; International Center; The Cloisters; The Riverside Church; and Methodist Hospital of Brooklyn.

Members of the confirmation class participated in the Children's Day Service Sunday with a simulated class session. They reviewed their last test and summarized some of the content and experiences of the class study.

Bruce P. Palen, chairman of the commission on membership and evangelism, welcomed the youths during the confirmation service and gave the response of the congregation to their reception into membership.

APPROPRIATING THE AISLE SEAT

Q: When going to the theatre with several women friends, shouldn't the one approaching the row first take the farthest seat in and the others follow in order; the last person entering, taking the aisle seat? One of the women in our group, regardless of whether she is first, second or third, always takes the aisle seat, forcing the others to walk in front of her and take the seats beyond. Don't you agree that this is very rude on her part?

A: Unless she has a very good reason for wanting to sit on the aisle (which she should explain to the others), it is indeed rude and thoughtlessly selfish of her to sit in this seat and force the others to squeeze past her.

Belated Shower for Daughter-In-Law

Q: My son was married over a year ago but as he and his bride were both still in college, they never set up housekeeping. They recently graduated. They have very little money and could really use help in the furnishing of their apartment. I was considering having a shower for my daughter-in-law. Would this be socially correct after a year of marriage?

A: I'm sorry, but it would not be proper for you to give a shower for your daughter-in-law.

Women Smoking on the Street

Q: Is it considered proper, in the present day, for a woman to smoke on the street?

A: On a country road, it is quite all right, but not when walking on a city street.

The clothes of the bride and groom's parents as well as those of the wedding guests are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Correct Clothes for a Wedding Reception." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column. (A Bell-Clare Syndicate Feature)

Summer Employment Encouraged by OCS

The Guidance Department at Oteora Central School recognizes the fact that many valuable educational experiences are available to students through part-time summer employment. Again this year, a coordinating service will be made available to students and employers. Students seeking employment are invited to make their availability known by filling in an informational form which can be obtained from Miss Burns in the High School Guidance Office. Employers are asked to list their vacancies with the guidance secretary.

To save the employer time, an effort will be made to match the applicant and the job. Although no guarantee is made, employers in other years have reported satisfactory results with the students employed. Young high school students benefit greatly from occupational experiences. They are brought into contact with the practical aspects of earning a living. Their appreciation of the value of money is heightened. If you are looking for help with the garden or lawn, if you need someone to assist with the children, to wait on table, or to work in the store; in short, if you have a job which can be done by a high school student, please list it. In so doing you help provide a young person with a chance to acquire valuable work experiences while earning money to help meet personal and educational expenses.

Legion Shades Hurley On Gilligan 2-Hitter

Murphy's Steal Of Home Pays Off

American Legion Post 150 rallied behind Ken Gilligan's two-hitter with two runs in the top of the seventh to nip Hurley, 2 to 1, in a Babe Ruth League thriller Wednesday.

In other action, Volunteer Firemen held off late surges by the Masons for an 8-6 victory.

Andy Murphy shared the hero's role with Gilligan, who fanned 13, by driving in the tying run, then stealing home for the clincher, Charlie Moore had stolen home for Hurley in the bottom of the sixth to put his club ahead, 1-0.

Moore matched Gilligan's 13 strikeouts and lost a well pitched seven-hitter. There were no extra base hits. Dave Carey and John Carter accounted for the two singles off Gilligan. Gilligan and Bob Davis each stroked a pair of singletons for the winners.

The Vols scored four runs in the fourth to break a 4-4 tie to go ahead 8-4. Danny Reinhard was touched for single runs in the sixth and seventh innings but nailed down the win. He fanned six to get the nod over Steve Van Dyke, who whiffed eight.

There were no extra bases. Doug Craddock, Masons' left-fielder, led the hitters with three singles. Van Dyke and Hank Harder also collected two singles for the losers. Pacing the Vols with two singles each were Dwight Byrd, Grant Dunham and Reinhard.

Tonight's action at 6 o'clock sends Vols against the Elks at Dietz Stadium and Kiwanis against Rotary at "A" Field.

Pitchers Love

Those Rallies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nothing seems to give a pitcher more comfort or assurance than when his team rallies to come from behind and take the lead.

In fact, it's enough to make a new man out of him.

That's what happened to Springfield southpaw Mike Davison Wednesday night against Elmira. And he can thank his second baseman, Larry Edmonson, for it.

Elmira nearly knocked Davison out of the box in the fourth by scoring two runs to take a 3-2 lead.

But in the sixth, Edmonson cracked a bases loaded single scoring two runs to give the Giants a 4-3 victory.

After the Giants took the lead Davison was a different pitcher. He gave up just one more hit—a scratch single in the ninth—to gain his second victory of the year against nine defeats.

It was the only Eastern League game played. Williamsport at Reading and Pittsfield at York were postponed because of cold, wet weather.

Little LEAGUERS

NLL Mets Rip Pirates, 13-9

Mets held off a pair of mid-game rallies to post a 13-9 win over the VFW Pirates in National LL.

The Shulls Paintmen racked up a five-run opening frame and came back with four more tallies in the top of the second. The Pirates slapped four runs across in the bottom of the second and rammed another five in the bottom of the fourth, but the Mets added a lone tally in the top of the third, two in the fourth and one more in the fifth. Both teams were scoreless in the final inning.

Tom Yonta struck out six batters in earning the victory.

Teammate Al Williams slashed two hits in four appearances at bat, including a double. Mets Tom Manello and Jim La Torre also ripped two baggers. Mike Hargrove slammed a triple for the losers while teammates Don Marrallo and Bruce Stalter collected two hits each in three trips to the plate.

The Giants meet the Mets Friday night in a game that could decide the NLL half-way leadership.

Ulster Tigers Edge Yankees

It took a full seven innings, but the Tigers came back from a two-run deficit to mow down the Ulster Kiwanis and score a 12-11 win in the Town of Ulster loop.

The Bengals clawed back with five tallies in the opening inning after the Yankees pushed one run across. However, the Yanks slammed another run and added seven more in the third. The Tigers added lone tallies in the third and fourth to make it 9-7.

The Yanks took command with a 11-9 lead in the top of the extra inning, but the Tigers weren't to be denied with their three run, gain-winning spurge.

Steve Van Kleeck had a perfect day at the plate for the winners with four-for-four, while teammate Rich Gossett slammed two singles in five appearances at bat. Tiger Bob Smith ripped a two-bagger while Bill Nyulassy—who had two-for-three at the plate, belted a three-bagger. Yankees John O'Keefe, Don Clossi and Rich Hayner each slammed a pair of singles.

Key Hit in 6th Wins for Hawks

A bases-loaded single by Steve Peruso in the bottom of the sixth inning earned the Hawks 3-2 victory over the Eagles in the Kingston Jayvee LL.

The Eagles jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the opening frame, but the Hawks clawed back to tie it up in the fourth. After a scoreless fifth, the home team Hawks held the Eagles down in the final stanza while setting the stage for the one-run margin. The Hawks capitalized on three major errors by the Eagles while committing five bobbles themselves.

Eagle Don Williams stroked a triple while the Hawk's Doug Tatar smashed two hits in three appearances at bat, including a three-bagger.

Yanks Dump P.E. By 8-2 in Esopus

Sparked by a four-run opening inning, the Yankees coasted to an 8-2 victory over Port Ewen Fire Department in the Esopus Legion circuit.

Winning pitcher Tom Barton held the firemen to a lone single by Jeff Dunham in earning the win. Barton and team mates Walt Bruckholts and Bob Cole collected a two bagger to pace the winners. Losing hurler Pete Ahearn struck out six and issued five walks. Barton whiffed three and walked the same number.

The Yanks had a 4-1 lead in the opening stanza and added three more in the second frame before PE was able to push across a lone tally in the sixth. Another run in the fourth, but that didn't figure in the final tallies. The losers committed three errors while the Yanks were guilty of two miscues.

Horton's Homers Paying Off

Tiger Slugger On Big Rampage

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

C'mon, William Wattison Horton, this is getting monotonous. You drive in four runs, three on a clinching homer, and Detroit wins Saturday. Then you get two more RBI on a homer and double and the Tigers win again Sunday. Then it's another decisive three-run homer and another victory Tuesday.

And Wednesday night you lead the Tigers to their fourth straight 9-4 over Boston — with four runs knocked in with a homer, double and single. That's four homers, 14 RBI and seven hits in 14 trips through the four games. That brings Willie Horton's American League-leading homer total to 15, his RBI total to 46, and his batting average to .363.

That kind of monotony Horton and the Tigers can stand. While Willie was devastating the slumping Red Sox, the Chicago White Sox climbed to within a half game of first-place Minnesota by handing Camilo Pascual his first loss, 3-1; Cleveland beat Washington 5-0 on Luis Tiant's one-hit pitching and Leon Wagner's batting; Baltimore trimmed the New York Yankees 5-1 with a spree of early homers; and Los Angeles knocked off Kansas City twice, 7-1 and 5-4.

Five-Run Rally
Detroit pulled out its game against Boston with five runs in the last of the seventh inning, two scoring on Horton's double. The bulky slugger added a two-run homer in the ninth as Boston lost its sixth straight and ninth in the last 10.

Mickey Lolich blanked the Red Sox until the seventh, then was knocked out in a four-run rally that included Carl Yastrzemski's homer with two on. Detroit reliever Fred Gladding picked up the victory while Bob DuBiba was charged with the loss.

Washington's only hit off Tiant was Woodie Held's single leading off the seventh. Wagner, meanwhile, drove in four of the Indians' runs with a three-run homer off loser Phil Ortega in the fourth and a single in the ninth.

The White Sox chased Pascual, winner of his first eight decisions, with a three-run fourth after the curve-balling Cuban had allowed only a scratch single by Floyd Robinson over the first three innings.

Robinson started the Chicago uprising with a single, Pete Ward doubled, and they scored on singles by J. C. Martin and Ron Hansen. Pascual's bases-loaded walk to Smokey Burgess forced in the third run.

John Buzhardt, 6-1, was the winner with late relief from Ed Fisher.

Downing Jolted
Jerry Adair, Sam Bowens and Jackie Brandt socked Al Downing for homers in the first three innings and the Orioles coasted in against the Yankees. Adair added a two-run double in the ninth for his third hit.

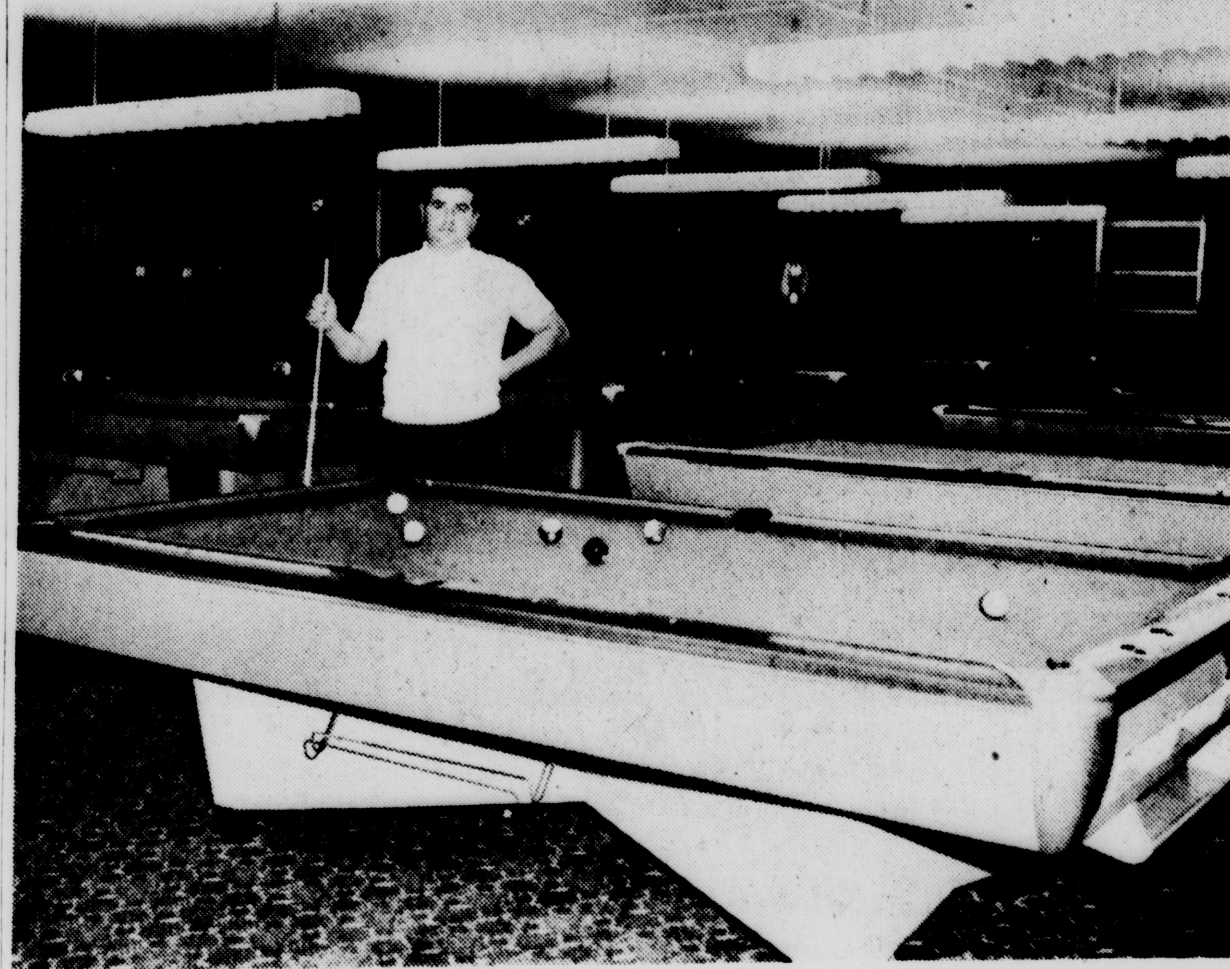

Lefty Dave McNally posted his first victory in five decisions with the Yanks, scattering six hits in eight innings. Dick Hall held New York in the ninth. George Brunet threw a five-hitter and struck out nine in the Angels-Athletics opener and Joe Adcock, who drove in two runs with two doubles in the first game, clinched the nightcap with a homer in the sixth inning.

Dean Chance, Cy Young Award winner as the majors' top pitcher last year, started the second game for the Angels but was ineffective again — and lasted only until the fifth.

Pick Lopez To Pilot AL Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was named today to manage the American League All-Stars against the National League All-Stars at Minneapolis-St. Paul on July 13.

American League President Joe Cronin said Lopez was selected because Yogi Berra, who managed New York to the league pennant last year and who would have automatically been the All-Star manager, is no longer in the league.

Lopez, patriarch of league managers with 14 years of managerial experience, guided the White Sox to a second-place finish last year.

This will be the fourth All-Star Game for Lopez as a manager. His teams lost three previous encounters with their National League counterparts. "I feel that Lopez earned the honor through his outstanding performance with the White Sox last season, as well as in recognition of his distinguished career as an American League manager," Cronin said in making the selection.

This marks the second year in a row that Lopez has been the All-Star manager through succession. Last year, he moved into the post because Ralph Houk, who had managed New York to the pennant in 1963, vacated the manager's desk for the role of general manager of the Yankees.

American League players will vote on the eight starting players, exclusive of pitchers. Lopez will name all the pitchers, as well as batting-practice pitchers and catchers, coaches and trainers.

Darkhorse In Regatta But Who?

By HERBERT G. PELKEY
Associated Press Writer

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — When is a darkhorse not a darkhorse? When it's a Badger, of course.

And darkhorse watchers would do well to keep their eyes on Norm Sonju's Wisconsin crew in the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championships Saturday on Onondaga Lake.

Only twice in the last 35 years has a crew from a school other than Cornell, California, Washington or Navy rowed away with the coveted varsity Channel Cup. On both occasions it was the Badgers who turned the trick.

Once again the big four are considered the crews to beat, although coaches are casting wary glances on Sonju's strapping oarsmen.

Coach Bill Leavitt of Rutgers already has sounded the warning. "They get off to a late start because of the weather," he said. "They're also hampered by a lack of any real tough competition until they get to the Eastern sprints near the end of the season."

Wisconsin failed to qualify for that one and last week the Badgers dropped a dual meet to Navy.

"But Sonju always manages to bring them around at regatta time," Leavitt said adding: "You just can't count them out."

The Big Red varsity beaten only by Harvard's invincibles, is the choice of competing coaches to repel the expected strong challenges from defending champion California and Washington, the Western sprint king.

Thirty-nine crews from 15 colleges are entered in the annual rowing classic, which returns to its normal distance format after a one-year stint as a 2,000-meter event.

Fifteen shells will vie in the three-mile varsity race, and 12 each in the jayvee three-mile race and freshmen two-mile event.

Patterson Makes His Big M Debut

MONTICELLO—Johnny Patterson Jr. may have a long way to go before he will become as capable horseman as his father. But, one thing is certain, he's off to a terrific start.

The 21-year-old driver, an assistant trainer with his dad since the early age of 12, reins two horses tonight at Monticello Raceway. Both are owned by the powerful Allwood Stable of Far Hills, N. J., the grey and gold outfit which John Patterson Sr. has handled so well over the last three and a half seasons.

Johnny Jr., who is more familiarly known as "Sonny" by his many friends, will skipper Leonardo in the second tonight and then Byword in the third. Leonardo, a speedy black son of Hoot Monlark Hanover is 6-1 on the morning line by Byword, a well-bred daughter of Tar Heel-Bye Song, is the 3-1 favorite to succeed in her race.

Sonny is an unusual young man, being the son of a famous and respected trainer-driver like John Patterson could have its complications. As in other sports, it is rare when a son lives up to a reputation established by his father. But as far as Sonny is concerned, veteran horsemen think that the young driver could make it on his own right now. He handles a horse that well.

In the Record Book

Koufax and Wills Aim To Knock Out K and W

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills and Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers have put themselves into position to knock two guys out of the record book—Maury Wills and Sandy Koufax.

Wills singled twice, stole second twice and rode home on singles by Jim Gilliam twice while Koufax limited San Francisco to six hits and struck out eight as the National League leaders edged the Giants 2-1 Wednesday night.

The performances left Wills well ahead of the pace he set when he stole a record 104 bases in 1962, and kept Koufax out front of the pace he set when he established a strikeout record for left-handers by fanning 206 in 1963.

Wills now has stolen a major league-leading 41 bases in 62 games and is 16 games ahead of his own pace. In 1962, he did not pilfer his 41st base until the Dodgers' 78th game.

Ahead of Pace
Koufax, meanwhile, brought his strikeout total for a major league-leading 135 for his first 15 appearances. In 1962, Koufax did not chalk up his 135th strikeout victim until his 18th time out.

The Dodgers' victory boosted their first-place edge over Milwaukee to 3 1/2 games as Philadelphia knocked off the Braves 6-2 behind the hitting of rookie catcher Pat Corrales.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh outlasted St. Louis 10-9, Cincinnati belted the New York Mets 8-4 and Houston ended an eight-game losing streak by edging the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 13 innings.

Wills legged out an infield hit in the fifth inning, stole second and scored on Gilliam's single, then the duo did a repeat for the winning run in the seventh inning off Bob Shaw after the Giants had tied the score.

Koufax, 10-3, was touched for a run in the top of the seventh when Willie Mays tripped and Jim Hart singled, but held on to whip the Giants for the first time since 1963.

Rookies Help Phils

Corrales, called up from Arkansas of the Pacific Coast League last Sunday, stroked three hits, including a two-run homer in the third inning that triggered a decisive five-run outburst for the Phillies. Corrales now has five hits in seven trips to the plate.

Jim Bunning brought his record to 6-5, keeping nine Milwaukee hits well scattered while striking out 10.

The Pirates used 23 players—all but pitchers Bob Veale and Don Cardwell—before finally subduing the Cardinals on Willie Stargell's three-run homer in the ninth.

It was Stargell's 14th of the season and followed a dropped third strike by Tim Lincecum that enabled Bill Virdon to reach base and an error by Jerry Buchek on Manny Mota's grounder.

Leo Cardenas hit two homers in a single game for the first time in his six-year major league career and Jim O'Toole, a 17-game winner last season, won his first game in six decisions as the Reds downed the Mets.

The Astros broke a runless streak of 33 innings in the third inning, tied the Cubs 2-2 on Walt Bond's run-producing single in the sixth and won it the 13th on a double by Joe Morgan, a walk to Bond and a single by Bob Aspromonte.

New Hockey Coach Set at Merrimack

NORTH ANDOVER, Mass. (AP)—J. Thom Lawler, a former hockey star at St. Lawrence University, has been named hockey coach at Merrimack College.

Lawler, a native of Rome, N. Y., replaces Ron Ryan, who was named hockey coach at Colgate. Lawler has been serving as hockey coach at Canton, N.Y., Central School where his teams have won at least a share of the league championship three out of the last four seasons.

Local Pacer Is Winner at B'g M

MONTICELLO — Rescued, a highly impressive locally owned three-year-old pacer filly, racing under the colors of Peter L. Rhulen of Monticello, won last night's featured fourth race in 2:06. The fourth was named in honor of the Veritans Club of Paterson, New Jersey.

Bobby Camper was in the sulky behind the pretty chestnut to rein her to her second consecutive victory. A daughter of Direct Rhythm and The King's Counsel mare, Trimway, Rescued was named in the coveted two hole until the three-quarter pole. There, Camper eased her out and around pace-setting Conestoga Lad.

In the stretch, Rescued opened up daylight but was pressed at the end to hold off the closing rush of Janita. Real Comier driving, Favored Westfield Express, Harold Story in the seat, came on for third after encountering much traffic trouble.

New Win Record

In taking a new win race record, Rescued returned $5.90, 4.80 and 2.70 across the board. The 7 and 3 daily double paid $8.80 when Billy Popfinger won the first with Nevele Dag and Harold Story took the second with Bonny Bartoc. This was the second time in three nights that a daily double returned less than $9.00, the double paying $8.70 on June 14.

The twin double at the Mighty M returned $3,587.20. Winning combination was 6-5-3-8 and winning horses were Mason Dixon in the fifth, Conestoga Red in the sixth, Saucy Gail in the seventh and Dick Task in the eighth.

A crowd of 3,792 was on hand to wager $278,019.

Rail Freight on Saratoga Track

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Rail Freight may be bringing home a cargo of money tonight if the stallion can cop the $1,000 Mechanical Contractors Pace at Saratoga Raceway.

Bill Current will take the four-year-old Torpid horse from the outside post in the fleet field of seven. Rail Freight owns a 2:07 victory for his only appearance of the current campaign. Last season he had three wins while notching a mark of 2:05.

Top competition for Rail Freight is expected to come from First Nighter and Adorable Wick. First Nighter has an impressive record of three wins, three seconds and a third in its eight outings of the season. Tom Valente's Adorable Wick finally made it to the winner's circle last Monday and will be aiming to make it two in a row tonight.

School Funds Approved 353-86 For Red Hook

Red Hook Central School District voters Wednesday night approved a $1,351,847 budget for 1963-64 by a vote of 353-86. The total showed an increase of $203,203 over the present operating budget.

Dr. George F. Michael, a Red Hook dentist and incumbent president of the Board of Education, was re-elected by a 314-173 vote for another five-year term. He defeated Mrs. Herman Ross, Town of Red Hook mother of seven children, who is retiring as English teacher in the Tivoli Union Free School.

School district officials anticipate an increase in the school tax rate. The figure will be reported later after the assessment rolls are received, it was said.

The AEC was allotted $2,354,995,000 of the $2,481,000,000 it sought.

The object of this action is to partition certain real property which is more accurately described below and which property was conveyed to the County of Ulster, New York, by the State of New York, in 1939 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 600 of Deeds, page 531.

The property in question is described as follows:

WAR AGAINST VD—Knocked down but not out by the advent of penicillin, infectious syphilis increased last year for the seventh consecutive year, reports the American Social Health Organization. The 2,733 cases reported in 1962 were the greatest number since 1950. U.S. Public Health Service estimates there were about another 100,000 unreported cases. Reported gonorrhea victims also increased by 20,000 over 1961 to 290,003 in 1962. Syphilis incidence rate in the 20 to 24 age group was four and one-half times the national average. Among teen-agers, the syphilis and gonorrhea rate was twice the national average. Congress has earmarked $10 million this fiscal year for the fight against venereal disease.

Barry Opposes Ground Troops In Viet Action

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

The United States should quit sending ground troops to Viet Nam, Barry Goldwater has told a national Young Republican convention.

The 1964 Republican presidential nominee addressed a cheering audience Wednesday night shortly after the government announced that the U.S. Viet Nam force is being increased to between 70,000 and 75,000.

Asians should provide the ground forces, Goldwater said. "The terrain and climate are familiar to them, unfamiliar to us," he said.

"Our contribution should be the full and proper use of our air and sea power," he said.

Goldwater said the United States should withdraw what he called a promise not to bomb the Hanoi area.

He also urged a blockade of Cuba by the navies of the United States and other American nations.

Rochester Town Planning Unit Checks Tax Map

The desirability of obtaining a tax map for the Town of Rochester was discussed at the regular meeting of the Town Planning Board this week in the Accord Fire Hall.

John W. Scribano, board chairman, presided over the meeting, which was attended by members Albert Milliken, Mrs. Angela Pellicane, Samuel Reavin, Howard Terwilliger and Winston Van Kleeck.

Scribano said a representative from an aerial tax map organization from Philadelphia, Pa., attended the last meeting of the Ulster County Planning Board to outline how such a map could be established in the county. Scribano pointed out that recent publicity stressed that the cost for such tax maps in Orange County had been estimated at about a half-million dollars. However, he said, Orange County has approximately 90,000 land parcels, which would set the rate at about $5.50 per parcel, which he said, was not excessive.

Many Not on Rolls In addition, Scribano said, the recent study uncovered many parcels which had not appeared on the tax rolls, and the additional revenue which will be derived therefrom would offset the overall cost within a few years. He said similar experiences had been reported from other areas.

Terwilliger displayed a new county map of the Town of Rochester on which he had marked off areas owned by New York State. He said that he intended to add to the map whatever information he had in the particular area with which he was familiar. In order that Brown & Anthony, the professional planning consultants, would be able to use it in their proposed study.

At the request of the Town Board, a committee consisting of Milliken, Reavin and Terwilliger was appointed to work jointly with the board on recommendations to remodel or rebuild the newly purchased building in Accord. Milliken said that he examined the building, and some preliminary studies for the proposed renovations have been made.

A motion by Milliken was unanimously passed, calling for a recommendation by the Planning Board to the Town Board that a "junked cars" ordinance be studied and enacted if at all possible. This motion was made following a discussion on the control of junk yards suggested by Joseph Babiarz and a complaint to the town board by a resident of Allgerville regarding this condition. Scribano read a sample ordinance on control of junk yards in Orange County.

Discusses Gypsy Control Mrs. Pellicane discussed gypsy moth control and the damage already done in certain areas, including the vicinity where she lives. Terwilliger also spoke of the infestation of many acres of land that he owns. Both had paid for private aerial spraying of their properties but felt that little could be done if adjacent areas were not sprayed. It was mentioned that the state had appropriated funds for county-wide spraying last year, but that the appropriation had been cut this year so that only a few heavily infested areas had been sprayed.

Van Kleeck said that opposition to spraying came from farmers and others who felt it contaminated pastureland and killed birds. Scribano pointed out that the Planning Board had no jurisdiction over the matter but that it could, as a public service, hold an open meeting to discuss the matter.

Terwilliger's motion to hold a public hearing on gypsy moth control was unanimously passed.

Congress Plans Excise Cuts as Early as Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress set up a tight schedule today to bring price cuts through excise tax reductions to U.S. consumers at the earliest possible date — perhaps Saturday.

Conferees from the House and Senate agreed Wednesday night on a compromise excise tax bill ultimately trimming $4.6 billion a year from the levies on a wide variety of goods, from automobiles to matches.

House leaders plan, barring unforeseen setbacks, to take up the compromise bill as the first order of business today. Since the conference version closely resembles the bill the House has already passed, quick approval was expected.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., one of the principal Senate conferees, said that chamber will act as soon as possible after the House votes.

He took part in an Oxford University discussion of the Viet Nam problem Wednesday night.
